Shalom laYehudim, Shalom laBnai Noach, Shalom laGoyim. It's the evening of the 2nd day, kaf-vav beTammuz, tav-shin-ayin-heh, Parashas Mattos-Masei, the evening of the 1st day, Sunday, 12 July 2015, webcasting from the center of history.

Or so it seems sometimes. Like today, when late in the day the news was of an agreement in Vienna about to be signed by the P5 +1 states and Muslim Iran, arguably the Nazi Germany of the day for its imperial dreams and lunatic hatred of Jews and for being Public Enemy Number 1 in the international arena as the major instigator of terrorist atrocities.

Iran, let us remember, was central to Pres. George Bush, 43, in his "Axis of Evil" speech and remains a criminal state, yet here are these supposedly civilized, law-abiding societies trying to make a deal with it; sort of like making a deal with the Mafia or Adolf Hitler in Munich in 1938. What is the point of this behavior that is as bizarre as any in Lewis Carroll's Wonderland? To repeat: the most important, common characteristic between Nazi Germany and Iran today is this shared, lunatic hatred of Jews.

Yesterday was Al-Quds Day in Iran during which millions of Iranians barked "Death to Israel!" and "Death to America!" as America in Vienna sat across the table from the foreign minister of Iran and was all smiles as it continued to retreat.

Obama, I believe, to be a borderline character disorder, a borderline cuckoo who 24-7 is always lying. It is a kind of schizoid existence.

But as for John Kerry, I see him as another Hillary Clinton, a deep well, a bottomless pit really, of ambition, only it's all ambition without content. He's another empty suit, who looks the part and sounds the part of the patrician statesman but if he truly were concerned for his country, he would not be sitting in Vienna smiling at Zarif, foreign minister of Iran but calling for war with that country.

None other than the liberal two-stater Michael Oren has written of Obama's betrayal of his repeated statements that military force was a possibility, then last month told Israeli TV that there is no military option.

And where is John Kerry in all this? This reversal of policy in another man by the president might prompt a secretary of state to resign; it has happened before.

But evidently this cluck Kerry plows ahead as ordered by his master in these serial retreats. Obama, I truly believe, is driven by hatred of the US, this so-called convert to a Christianity in which his pastor preaches "G-d damn America."

This character Obama began playing PR agent for Islam and the Iranians in his first inaugural address. His first phone call as president was to the Holocaust-denying Arab criminal Mahmoud Abbas. His first interview was with an Arab newspaper.

Two and a half months into his first term, he crossed paths with the king of the country that is the birthplace of Islam and bowed obsequiously to him, king of the country where 15 and of the 19 sky devils eight years earlier had been raised and educated. They were this man's subjects.

The Muslims made fresh waves last winter by blood chopping off heads and Obama sees it as his job to explain and defend Islam to his fellow Americans, and chastise them for being descendants of Crusaders. He sees it as his job to defend Islam from American hostility and not defend Americans from Muslim aggression.

With John Kerry, though, I am not so sure. He launched himself onto the public stage in the early 1970s as a "rebel," as a decorated war hero in Viet Nam who was disgusted with the behavior of his fellow soldiers, those war criminals, and he dramatically threw his medals over the White House fence.

And I thought at the time that this is a publicity hound. He just wants attention. And it turned out I was right. It turned out his time in Viet Nam was less than what he advertised. His medals were largely phony. He arrived in country with movie cameras so others could film him in action, already thinking of his future political career. He was open about his desire to be the next JFK. In a way, he is a spiritual clone of Bill Clinton who also idolized Kennedy. John Forbes Kerry was even known to joke that he had the same initials as John Fitzgerald Kennedy and therefore was going to be president too.

About the time he threw his medals over the White House fence, as he was about to testify in Congress against the war, he flew off to Paris for a little free-lance, unauthorized diplomacy with the enemy, the Viet Cong.

I see him like Hillary and her husband Bill, like our whole baby boomer generation, these empty suits full of ambition to make it but once on the job don't having any real task in mind for the good of the country.

So in Vienna, I think this empty suit Kerry is just playing the role with no real grasp of the situation. If he were an American patriot, as American Secretary of State, he would see Iran as a mortal threat to America -- apart from its diabolical thirst for Jewish blood. And he does not shows he is a fool.

Since 1979, the regime in Teheran has staged massive, anti-American political demonstrations in which the mobs shout, "Death to America!" This regime has launched terrorists to kill hundreds of American servicemen. This regime invented a new religious holiday in which millions of people are encouraged by their Muslim priests who rule the country to scream, "Death to Israel!"

But there sits the American Secretary of State who should want to cripple Iran, not sit across the table and smile at his counterpart, Iran's Foreign Minister Mohammad Javad Zarif. and engage with him in polite dialogue, diplomatic smiles and all. What Kerry is doing is the opposite of defeating crippling Iran. He is strengthening it, as per Obama's orders.

Versus Obama -- versus Kerry is an idiot -- who I have no doubt does not like America. His pastor, his spiritual guide Rev. Wright, hates it; his tutor as young man, the Communist newspaper editor Frank Marshall Davis, hated America; Muslims like his father and his stepfather hated America. Muslims hate America.

With Kerry, I think, though, it is just the path to success that he cares about, the prestige that drives him. I think Kerry is just too shallow to hate the Jews as much as Obama does.

Yesterday in Teheran, El Supremo Ayatollah Khomeini addressed his countrymen on their holy day and told them America was the epitome of arrogance, as his countrymen burned American and Israeli flags, and, make no mistake, much of the hatred for America stems from its support of Israel which is virtually unique in the world.

This drives Muslims crazy with envy with its echoes of Avraham expelling Ishmael from his tents, sending him away with his mother back to Egypt as not the favorite son. It drives the Muslims crazy that the Israelites, not the Ishmaelites, are favored in the US.

Avraham ordered Ishmael and mother to leave. They did and hysterical Ishmael was profligate with the water, which soon ran out and then his mother abandoned him to his suffering. This was one unhappy teenager, this wild ass of a man.

Online you can find the HAMAS founding covenant of 1988 and within the first few lines the Muslim Brothers in Gaza are boasting that Believers were the true favorite people of Allah.

Muslims suffer from a boiling cauldron of homicidal envy toward the Jews. Our very presence here is experienced as a humiliation, a defeat for Islam that must be reversed. The Koran is quite clear in its views of Jews who must be oppressed and humiliated and that is how it was for more than a thousand years.

In Kerry's defense, I would say that because he is an American provincial, he has no real frame of reference for the Iranians, for these Muslims who are as crazy about Jews today as German Nazis were last century. I don't think John Kerry has the intellectual and spiritual equipment to face that reality.

Versus Obama, who in his Muslim arrogance last January was the only leader of the Western democracies who refused to fly to Paris to protest the slaughters there committed by Muslims; to participate in that largest political demonstration in human history. Obama could not bring himself to criticize Islam that his presence would signify. His performance in January was a variation on a theme of his insane Ft. Hood denial of a role for Islam in the instance of carnage.

So, if in the previous segment I entertained the idea of John Kerry as a provincial who cannot see just how different Middle Eastern Muslims are in their thinking and behavior, the same might be said in defense of Dr. Yosef Beilin, PhD, the famous political scientist who engineered the Oslo Peace Process which brought no peace, only massacres, atrocities, murder and mayhem.

Over the weekend, a news outlet, a pro-Arab website called Al-Monitor, ran a piece by retired Haaretz columnist Akiva Eldar who was as far left as any of their writers. He was as an observer, and remains one, truly blinded in one eye, so to speak. All he can see are Arabs, the Balestinians, being victimized by Israel and at no time does he ever take notice of the lunatic Muslim hatred of Jews that is all over the history of the relationship between the two peoples.

Keeping busy in retirement, I guess, he posted some inside stuff on the toxic relationships now in the PA leadership between Abbas and old rival Muhammad Dahlan and Salem Fayyad and Yasir Abed Rabbo.

It seems that the famous scientist Beilin posted on Al-Monitor a stunning rebuke of Abbas's his erstwhile partner Mahmoud Abbas for his recent sacking of Yasir Abed Rabbo for his association with Salem Fayyad whom Abbas sacked a couple of years ago. It seems that Abed Rabbo and Fayyad were working on nonprofit organization set up by Fayyad to rebuild infrastructure in the PA – and probably skim a lot of money off it. Beilin was furious with his erstwhile partner Mahmoud Abbas for firing these two "Palestinian statesmen noted as independent thinkers and loyal representatives of their people who were kicked out of the political establishment for no better reason than the whims of its autocratic leader." Beilin appealed to the international community to demand an explanation for his conduct from Abbas.

Let us remember too that Beilin famously, behind everyone's back after the Handshake on the White House, co-wrote another agreement with Abbas two years later which was never implemented, but they worked together for years proud of their accomplishment – the so-called Beilin-Abbas Agreement.

And after Ehud Barak ended the rule of the Peace Processors of the Left in 2000 -- of those fools Peres, Rabin, Beilin and their pinhead assistants with the PhDs -- Beilin then partnered with Abed Rabbo and together co-authored the so-called Geneva Initiative which of course, when presented to the public when finished, was a major media event. It was nothing but warmed-over Oslo.

Yossi Beilin is another provincial who grew up in a cocoon of like-minded, post-Jewish socialists; his entire community being secular Israeli Jews who like Kerry cannot or will not face the evil on the other side. He sees in these guys statesmen and patriots, inside of gangsters who launched massacres of innocent people. And all of them have become rich, millionaires because unlike Bill Gates and legions of entrepreneurs and start-up guys who create wealth, these siphon off wealth from the rivers of foreign aid sent to the PA. Abbas, like Arafat, like all of them, built themselves plush mansions. I think in Abbas's case a house even across the street for a UNRWA slum.

These men are not statesmen, Yossi, but outlaw murderers and grafters, extortionists, embezzlers. None of the Oslo engineers could see this though.

Like today in Vienna, the idea of negotiating with proven criminals who do not keep their side of a deal, so Oslo was signing a deal with these PLO criminals, many of whom like Arafat started out in life in the Muslim Brotherhood.

But the desire for peace was so great and a temptation, an agreement was made with these evil men.

Also, the human foibles of cowardice and greed and Jew-hatred played their part. The P5 +1 countries are just itching, champing at the bit to return to doing business with Iran, and their greed makes cowards of them. And at some level of consciousness, they know they are toying with the lives of six million Jews.

To read this report by Akiva Eldar, who during his tenure at Haaretz I never read because he has such a one-dimensional mind, boring, he wrote about Yossi Beilin now shocked at the behavior of his former soul-brother in peace processing Mahmoud Abbas who is upset that he had fired of his other former partner Abd Rabbo with whom Beilin toured world capitals to sell their peace plan called the Geneva Initiative.

Yasir Abd Rabbo, before he hitched his wagon to Arafat and his Fatah during the first intifada, had been for years second-in-command under Nayef Hawatmeh's DFLP terror operation, the one behind the massacre of almost two dozen Jewish children in Maalot. How Yossi Beilin could spend time with this man has always been beyond me.

I remember that May 15, 1974. I was working the night shift in a Jerusalem mental hospital and on my way to work in a bus the news came over the loudspeaker, after the day-long hostage siege, that the IDF raid to free the children had failed and the results were announced. The people on the bus, strangers, started crying.

Oslo was an abomination of associating with these monsters, these Hamitic murderers in the hope of making peace with them. It was an abomination morally but no less intellectually. When did Jews get to be so stupid, Rabin, Peres, Beilin and their community of delusionists, to negotiate with these people? Who are these peace freaks?

Here in this latest outburst by Beilin attacking Abbas that I find is more evidence that Yossi and his type have yet to judge this man and his type accurately. He is upset with him. Why?

These are conscienceless Arab murderers and swindlers and grafters whose stock in trade is murdering and lying about Jews and becoming rich in the process.

Today in the Knesset MK Sharon Gal in the Jewish Home Party, former radio journalist, introduced a bill calling for the death penalty for terrorists, but the prime minister using some political maneuver put the kibosh on that initiative by calling for a committee to study the question for months to come.

One can only speculate on Bibi's motives. I think it has been a major mistake of this State of Israel to turn its nose up at capital punishment since Day One, following the enlightened attitude in our time.

I think it has been a big mistake, a big Jewish mistake. The Torah is clear about the institution of capital punishment and that makes perfect sense. If it is all right in the heat of a terrorist attack by two Arabians to kill one and capture the other who behaved exactly as the first, it is right after sober judgement and procedures to kill him to do, to execute him. If it is right for soldiers in war to kill innocent foreigners in uniform on a battlefield, it is right to take the life of a guilty murderer in civilian life.

Paradoxically, capital punishment is the proper response for the most unforgiveable crime that men and women commit: killing one another. It is a paradox for some who think that if it is wrong to murder, it is wrong for the state to kill the murderer.

No it is not. It is -- paradoxically -- the only way to honor the sanctity of life. You unjustly deprive another person of his life, the penalty is the loss of your life.

Life in prison is not the proper response. Even prison life has its pleasures: reading a book; on a hot day drinking a glass of cold water; witnessing a sunset through the bars of your cell window.

Life in prison is also in actuality quite rare; people get paroled. And as such it is a dishonest punishment for that.

And so since Day One of the State of Israel, its post-Jewish, fashion-conscious, politically correct leftist ruling elite have opposed capital punishment -- making an exception only for Adolf Eichmann.

I also think it is not a coincidence that in the same time and place in the States, in the early 1970s, when capital punishment was declared by the Supreme Court unconstitutional in practice, the Court also ruled that abortion was no longer illegal. In the one case, taking a life as punishment was ruled out of bounds, while taking the life of a growing, innocent human being in the womb for no good reason became kosher.

Intrauterine infanticide since then has ended life for tens of millions of human beings and surely accounts for the demographic reports according to which the founding communities in America of mostly European Christians and Jews are dying and not reproducing themselves. The same goes for Europe.

As to why the prime minister put a stop to the initiative today, one can only guess. I suspect he feels all focus must be on Iran and what is about to happen or not happen, and wrestling with that issue at this time would be a distraction and give ammunition to our enlightened BDS types enemies to smear us further. In addition to being a racist country, we would be so politically backward as to reinstate the death penalty.

As of this evening, it sounds as if Kerry and associates will produce a pseudo-agreement with loopholes and caveats and unfulfilled conditions to make it seem an agreement has been reached when in fact it has not.

Then the issue goes to Congress and if the Democrats remain loyal to their villainous standard bearer in the White House, it will be a brave new world.

Last item: Israel Hayom newspaper today reported on Mike Huckabee campaigning for president resurrecting that old, infamous political TV ad in 1964, the “Daisy” commercial in which the Democrats insinuated a vote for Barry Goldwater the extremist would lead to a nuclear war. Now Mike Huckabee is using it to send the message that the impending Iran deal will threaten Israel with being nuked and then the US with being nuked.

If words have meaning, and the Iranians are to be taken at their word -- as the Nazis should have been -- then who can argue with Mike Huckabee?

I guess he is fishing for the allegedly 50 million Evangelicals -- he is himself, I think, an ordained minister -- who have become ardent supporters of Israel to support his campaign.

Well shall see. Only time will tell.
