Shalom laYehudim, Shalom laBnai Noach, Shalom laGoyim. It's the evening of the 6th day, lebes beMenachem Av, tav-shin-ayin-heb, Parashas Devarim, the evening of the 5th day, Thursday, 23 July 2015, webcasting from the envy of the world.

What is original Christianity, the Church of Rome, if not the claim that Christians are the real Jews, ergo, the Promised Land belongs to them?

What is Islam if not the same claim in a different key? Read the Hamas Covenant, whose first lines make the claim that the Muslims are G-d's favorite people. In both cases, there is no originality, only plagiarism, intellectual property theft.

And again yours truly smiles, for willy-nilly both groups of believers believe in the truth of the Torah. There is one G-d and He chose one people for a special role and designated a small country for them to live in.

Only, world antiJewry cannot accept His choice for His people. Both know better. Both cannot tolerate the Jews living out their faith in their little country, which is, when you think about it, a unique phenomenon on the globe.

I mean, the Japanese act out and honor the rituals of their native religion Shinto and nobody bothers them about that.

Same for the Hindus in India and the Cargo Cults in New Guinea. Only the Jews must be prevented from living according to their religion in their tiny country.

A top story today was the continuing conflict over Sussia. JPost astonishingly headlined its front-page cover story, "The Invention of a Village," which yours truly found way out of character. I mean, they have never ever published a submission by me, and in part I suspect because they don't want to publish the one-line at the end, namely, “Shai ben-Tekoa is the author of Phantom Nation: Inventing the “Palestinians as the Obstacle to Peace.” In Enlightened circles, anyone who thinks that is either a racist, fascist member of Meir Kahane’s cult or an old fool like Golda Meir who denied the existence of this ancient people too.

Well, this Sussiya story is a classic, a microcosm really of the last half-century of post-Holocaust anti-Jewism. When the sights and smells of Auschwitz made the news worldwide, people were so disgusted, nauseated, anti-Semitism was finished; leastwise in its Nazi incarnation and the crackpot theories of the previous 100 years when the very name antisemitism was invented after Europeans had lost their faith in Christianity.

Post-Holocaust Europeans were now bereft of a permissible way to hate the Jews and it took a couple of decades but eventually they came up with the tragedy of the Ancient Palestinians, this hallucination of an ancient people living here as the victims of us racist, fascist, imperialist Jews who were no better than the Nazis who had persecuted us. That is the meaning of the Nakba.

And here is the latest episode. It seems that this Arab village called Sussiya now is home to over 300 Arabians, and is just about lock, stock and barrel a creation of one European country after another via their contributions and charities and NGOs and direct government assistance to the Palestinian Authority.

The myth of the Palestinians has become this generation’s deicide charge, and to make it stick, the Europeans spend millions supporting local anti-Jew NGOs manned by antisemitic Israelis – we do have such internal enemies in every generation – and for such projects they have provided the infrastructure for this phony Potemkin village in order to deny the barren land to the Jews who had come to restore an ancient synagogue for a truly ancient Jewish community on the site.

Gerald Steinberg’s NGO Monitor website today has the particulars if you are interested. I looked at them and it took my breath away. For example, Rabbis for Human Rights, run by the demented Reform rabbi Arik Ascherman from the States, who comes across like a 1960s fossil copy of an Abby Hoffman or Jerry Rubin hippy, and his outfit, are orchestrating the resistance to the IDF and Israeli Supreme Court order to demolish this phony-baloney encampment. They receive money from the UK Consulate, from an NGO in Europe called the Human Rights and International Law Secretariat, whatever that is, a front evidently jointly funded by Sweden, Switzerland, Denmark and Holland. Ascherman also gets money from Spain, the EU, NGOs in Germany, the Catholic Church in Ireland, the Norwegian Church, a church in Holland, the Church of Sweden, and of course help from the mixed multitude of anti-Jew Jews who run the New Israel Fund.

B’Tselem is also included in this list. Indeed, one of its employees had an op-ed in the New York Times today about Sussiya. B’Tselem also gets money from the EU, France, from a Danish NGO, a Swedish NGO, the government of Norway, another Irish Catholic NGO, a German NGO, UNICEF, Catholic Relief Services, World Vision, I think that is an American antiJew Christian outfit, the same Human Rights Secretariat and more of the same NGOs that give money to Ascherman's scam.

Then, NGO Monitor lists another half-dozen of these NGOs also supplied by all these European governments and front organizations.

What this story is about is our generation's variety of Jew-hatred and the lies Jew-haters in our time tell about us, and the lengths they will go to make us look bad – like building this phony-baloney village.

In the past, they called us bloodsuckers, vampires, and then later blood-sucking bankers. Today we are known to have stolen Palestine from the Palestinians and we are still doing that.

And I say Israel has to, at some point, stand up straight and look today's anti-Jews in the eyes and tell them there are no "Palestinians" and all their propaganda is nothing but this generation's version of antisemitism.

This conflict over so-called Arab Sussiya that Israel wants to demolish is this generation's version of Jews poisoning the wells. The Europeans, it seems, not only donate to Ascherman and B'Tselem, all the major infrastructure in this village of 300 is paid for by the same anti-Jew countries and their phony-baloney NGOs.

When the Israeli Supreme Court rules that such an encampment is illegal and can be demolished, you can believe it. All the historical evidence, including aerial photos, some perhaps as old as the First World War, show a barren land where this illegal Balestinian settlement now sits. The claim to being the real ancient Palestinian landowners is perfectly bogus. Only after Israel, post-1967, began to restore the area and especially that ancient synagogue and implant the Jewish community today with some 200 families, did Arabs begin squatting on the land that today they claim to have been in possession of from time immemorial.

And as such, Sussiya is some of the DNA of the entire edifice of lies that is Palestinian Nationalism. It is a micro incident of what they have done here as part of their macro level operation.

Again, yours truly is smiling as I contemplate the enormity of what our enemies have accomplished, and clearly, by our enemies, I do not mean just the Arabs and the Muslims. Clearly in this story the same ferstunkene Europeans who have been our tormentors for thousands of years are still at it.

The UN today is dominated by countries, that is, peoples, obsessed with Israel and the breath-taking fact of our return and military victories after 18 centuries of oppression, humiliation, abuse, injustice and satanic cruelty. And in their age-old hatred of us, they have managed -- tragically with too much Jewish support -- into rewriting human history over these 18 centuries.

It is a point I make repeatedly in my book: the invention of the Palestinians is really the flip-side of Holocaust Denial, only, in a way, on a far greater scale. Holocaust Denial is deleting from history events that happened over a few decades in the 20th century, specifically the crucifixion of the Jewish people, while Palestinian Nationalism is the insertion into history of the existence of a people that never was.

In both cases, history is raped.

* * (Musical Interlude) * *

Yes, the invention of the Palestinians, with this phony Sussiya village being only the latest chapter, is an extraordinary event in human history. For most of these 18 centuries, this country lay uninhabited. It was a barren, mournful expanse, and everybody, that is to say, all Christians and Muslims, knew why. Because the Jews were punished by G-d for their sins and expelled from this Land, and no nation came to take their place.

At no time in these 18 centuries did anyone claim to be a “Palestinian” or was so recognized. Haj Amin al-Husseini, born about the same time of the first Zionist Congress in Basel, Switzerland in 1897, spent his all life insisting there was no such country called Palestine.

But starting in the lunatic 1960s, and especially after the miraculous return of the Jews to Jerusalem and Hevron and Shilo and Jericho in 1967, the world has re-written thousands of years of history.

They say now that Palestine was never a wasteland. In Arafat’s speech to the PLO in 1989 (it is in my book) after winning US recognition, he opened by praising the green and verdant land of their forefathers and all of their great accomplishments on this land, and it is this crackpot version of history that is now accepted as history around the world.

And, again, sorry to say, secular Israelis desperate for the love of the goyim so they would stop persecuting us, have been complicit in the propagation of this cosmic lie. That’s the last chapter in my book: the part played in the invention of this phantom people with phantom villages like Sussiya by the Jewish people’s post-Zionist and really post-Jewish Jews. At its worst, this tendency led to even the prince of the Revisionist movement Benyamin ben-Bentzion, son of one of Jabotinsky’s pallbearers, proclaiming at Bar-Ilan that he too salutes the right of the Ancient Palestinians to a state in Judea and Samaria.

And then Israelis like him wonder why the world gangs up on us over Sussiya. The JPost coverage today opened with a meeting held a week ago, a press conference, at the State Department, which, JPost said, “astonished legal circles in Israel.” The first question concerned Iran but immediately the second raised the matter of Sussiya at which point the State Department spokesman John Kirby began reading a prepared statement to pressure Israel into not enforcing the demolition order at Sussiya.

“A prepared statement?” And it was the second question? This was a setup to distract debate from the Iran abomination. The JPost reporter, one Ari Briggs, said Israelis were astonished for two reasons. One, State was apparently misinformed about basic facts of the case. (Yeah, sure.) Two, the statement appears to be an “arrogant attempt to undermine the Israeli legal system, including its universally respected High Court,” and I would add respected for it is normally as pro-Balestinian as the rest of the enlightened world.

It appears that last week this was a setup by the State Department to deflect attention from the Iranian abomination, and made the Jews the target of irritation.

And what makes it all so horrible is that the case is so obviously a simple one in which we in Israel have right on our side, and only by antisemitic invention does the enemy make a case against us. And, to repeat, the enemy is not only the Arabs but anti-Israelites on the payroll of antiJew Europeans whose culture has been antiJew for thousands of years.

The case of “Palestinian” Sussiya is yet another in the annals of Jew-hatred for being an invention of alleged Jewish perfidy that never happened. This case is as phony as the Dreyfus Trial, the Mendel Beilis case in Russia a century ago, and every time Jew-haters claimed we killed a non-Jewish child for his blood.

Only, official Israel remains cut off from that reality. We need leaders who when in a press conference with leading European politicians and really before the whole world will say directly to them and before the cameras, “You people are up to your old tricks telling lies about the evil you need to believe that we commit. These “Palestinians” are imposters. There is nothing Palestinian about them. Their claims to national rights here are bogus. A major percentage of them are the offspring of migrant workers who migrated here after the Zionists got going, and the minority living here before then insisted they were Syrians. Well, the independent state of Syria came into being in April 1946, two years before Israel declared independence, and no one is stopping these Arabs in Judea and Samaria from moving to their country of Syria.

After World War II, Churchill, Truman and Stalin at Potsdam tore Germany in two and ordered some ten million ethnic Germans living in countries abutting the new map to go live in the new truncated Germany. And so by the same ethical calculus Israel has the right to tell the Arabs here to go live in historic Syria truncated after World War I.

Whatever shape an Israeli public diplomacy takes, it has to shed its decade-old obeisance to the myth of the “Palestinians” for that is at the heart of the entire propaganda war against us.

Instead of trying to be nice the “Palestinians,” Israel has to say there are no Palestinians and Israel will not negotiate statehood for this notional nation.

* * (Musical Interlude) * *

Two days ago on Tuesday, Deputy Foreign Ministress Tsipi Hotovely, it was reported yesterday, began a series of consultations with European foreign ministers and the deputies and ambassadors of several European countries in which she shows them evidence of their governments’ financial assistance to NGOs supporting boycotts, accusing Israel of ethnic cleansing, apartheid, war crimes, supporting the right of return.

Good for her, and I hope she tells each and every one of these people that as far as Israel is concerned, you Europeans are just up to your old tricks. Post-Holocaust, this is how you have chosen to continue your lies about us, your aggression against us, and we demand that you stop it.

The Europeans of course would protest that support for the Ancient Ones is not antisemitism, in which case she must insist that because the entire corpus of Palestinian is a mountain lies, this Sussiya business is all lies too.

They will resist and insist that criticism of Israel is not antisemitism, and the answer to that is this: criticism of Israel that is honest, truthful and accurate, is not antisemitism. Trouble is, that is maybe 2.5 or 3% of the criticism, which a statistician will tell you is statistically insignificant. Put another way, when 97 or 97.5% of the criticism is all lies, then, yes, in general, criticism, in our time is antisemitism, starting with the Olympian lie of a Palestinian nation whose entire country we allegedly stole.

Friends of Israel abroad often ask why Israel's PR is so bad and this is why. Once you accept the lie of a Palestinian nation with national rights here, you can have no PR. You admit, as Bibi did at Bar-Ilan, that they exist and therefore the next and really only relevant question is, "When is Israel going to stop occupying their land? Let's have timetable, Israel."

Two webcasts ago we heard the EU rep John Gatt-Rutter, speaking like a robot, saying that "settlements are illegal under international law," and enemies like him will continue to parrot this anti-Jew mantra – that is a religious concept and it is a mantra -- until Israel answers with the counter statement: "No, the settlements are legal under international law."

Instead, Israel keeps up the dishonest pose of wanting to make a deal, wanting to compromise under the right conditions, when that too is a lie. No one, no Israeli leader, is ever going to support leaving Judea and Samaria; if only because of the logistical impossibility of that; if only because of the security conditions that make such a retreat impossible.

Alma dishikra, a world of lies. The world tells lies about us, and we too tell lies about us.

* (Musical Interlude) * *

Last item. In keeping with the Sussiya story and the ceaseless aggression by Europeans against our rightful possession of Judea and Samaria, there was a story yesterday that shook the stock market here, leastwise the bank stocks which plunged for a time. The fear was spread that the EU was going to sanction any Israeli bank doing any business in Judea and Samaria, but, as the truth came out, it was just a position paper published by yet another NGO in Europe called the European Council on Foreign Relations, which is a clone of the Council on Foreign Relations in New York run there by that antiJew Jew and veteran State Department Jewboy Richard Haas. In this case, the ECFR published a paper calling for such sanctions against the banks. This misunderstanding rattled official Israel until the EU itself and the foreign ministry made plain there was no such plan in the works.

And it turns out that the ECFR's Middle East and North Africa program is being run by a soul-mate of Richard Haas, old Daniel Levy, an antiJew English Jew with the soul of a Yossi Beilin.

Levy also happens to be one of the founders of J Street. I remember watching him years ago on C-Span expounding on a panel discussion on the Oslo Peace Process then in progress and I never heard such a pile of equine excreta in my life, a stream of State Department clichés about confidence-building measures and the like which told me that this guys has no serious knowledge of the Middle East and the Arab-Muslim war against us. Like Beilin, like Friedman, Goldberg, the whole lot of them, every pronouncement on Israel and our enemies out of their mouths is shaped in such a way as to convey the subtext, their most important message, that the speaker does not want to be identified with the Jews and supports their mortal enemies the Balestinians.

What a racket these peace processor types have going for themselves: comfortable salaries for constantly bashing Israel as the obstacle to peace.

And that is one reason my book's subtitle is Inventing the "Palestinians" as the Obstacle to Peace.

Leila tov, Shabbat shalom vetsom kal. No webcast on Sunday, the 9th of Av. I'll be back, G-d willing, on Tuesday.
