Shalom laYehudim, Shalom laBnai Noach, Shalom laGoyim. It's the evening of the 4th day, kaf beMenachem Av, tav-shin-ayin-heh, Parashas Ekev, the evening of the 3rd day, Tuesday, 4 August 2015, webcasting from the post-Zionist State of Israel founded by post-Jewish Zionists.

And that is who the secular Zionists were, starting with Herzl, who was born into the second generation of Reform Jews.

A Biblical generation of forty-plus years had passed when Theodor Herzl was born since the so-called Reform Judaism movement was invented which in shedding classical Jewish belief and thought shed the classical interpretation of anti-Jew hatred and abuse. In a religious universe, which is the true narrative of history, orchestrated by G-d, hatred of the Jews is a religious hatred.

But in the Age of the Enlightenment, when religion was sloughed off, rational, objective explanations, material not spiritual, were needed to explain the phenomenon. And after these material reasons were concocted, so the objective conditions that led to Jew-hatred could be changed. Change the objective conditions of the Jewish people, and anti-Semitism would disappear.

The Jews in Europe everywhere were not experienced as members of the local nation, and rightly so, which generated suspicion and friction and questions of loyalty. For centuries, the Church of Rome ruled that money lending for interest was immoral usury, and in fact the Jews were forced, to a degree, to be the money-lenders precisely because it was considered a dirty business.

So the post-Jewish Zionists would be socialists, not capitalists, not money-lenders, and literally true communists who lived in communes, kibbutzim, where no money ever changed hands and everyone had possessions of equal worth, so there was no envy of one's neighbor.

The gentiles mocked the Jews for not serving loyally in European armies and were seen in general as pathetic cowards who could be abused and mocked in the street. They would only run away.

So the Zionists would become soldiers as Jews had been soldiers thousands of years earlier.

In a word, the Zionists would show the gentiles they were wrong about Jews. The Zionists admitted to the failure of the Emancipation. The giving of citizenship to Jews in the 19th century had failed to remove the hostility, and so the solution to the friction and dislike was to leave. The Jews would restore their barren, ancient homeland, and become a normal people. Et voila! No more anti-Semitism. That was Zionism.

So yesterday the government of Israel, that is, the Security Cabinet, approved of administrative detention for far right extremists. A violation of democracy; no good. The Security Cabinet said it viewed the arson on Friday night in that Arab village at the Dawabsha family home and the burning to death of that child to have been a "terrorist attack in every respect." So now administrative detention, legally used on homicidal Arabs who cannot and do not deserve to be tried in a normal civilian court because they are not citizens, is to be used against Jews.

This is a mistake, an Israeli mistake. And it comes out of the Zionist fallacy that one can soothe the savage breast of the hostile goyim by agreeing with them that there is a problem in Israel with hate groups and far right extremists. That is what the Security Cabinet did.

Consider the two speeches last Saturday night by the current president Rivlin in Jerusalem and the former president Peres in Tel-Aviv, both of them hysterical in their painting of a wave of extremist hatred in the country that must be stopped. They want "zero tolerance" in the language of Dr. Federica Mogherini, Foreign Policy Czarina for the EU in Brussels.

I would have preferred a much cooler Israeli government response, one that rebuts the accusations of world antiJewry that Israel truly is now being swept away in waves of hatred for the Other, the Ancient Ones and sodomites.

This is nothing but old-fashioned anti-Jew hysteria and unbecoming for the government of Israel to react this way. As to the stabbing in Jerusalem of that poor, 16 year-old Jewish girl by that Haredi murderer, Israel must teach the world that the people of Israel, or any segment of it, its government or popular culture, has not a smidgen of guilt for what that one, individual psychopath did.

Today in Centennial, Colorado a jury ruled for the second time on the death penalty for James Holmes who shot up that audience in that movie theater. Yet no one is saying the American people and the government in Washington are responsible for what he did.

Where is Dr. Mogherini shaking her finger at the United States for its culpability in that crime? Were she not an anti-Jewess, she would also chastise President Obama for the absence of zero tolerance in the United States for crimes such as James Holmes pulled off.

Yes, the Haredi lunatic Yishai Shlissel was seized by the Other Side (sitra achra) on Friday and murdered a young Jewish girl, and Israel has to pound its chest in self-reflection and especially the entire Haredi community that shares the guilt for what he did. Indeed, the entire community of religious Jews for preaching extremism and hatred of sodomites. Everybody is guilty.

That is why I see in the Security Cabinet's decision classic, post-Jewish secular Zionist behavior, which is unbecoming.

And as for the arson in that Arab village: the government likewise should have stood firm and said that until the investigation is complete, all parties are potentially innocent and all parties potentially the perpetrators.

There are numerous curiosities regarding this crime and it would not be the first time in Jewish history that Jew-haters framed the Jews, murdered someone for something having nothing to do with Jews, but then we get blamed. That may have happened last Friday; we don't know yet.

Instead, we had those embarrassing performances on Motzei Shabbos by both Rivlin and Peres that were pathetic for conforming to the anti-Jew worldview. Yes! We are out of control here. We do not practice zero tolerance when it comes to the murder of Arabs. Why, the settlers do it all the time. Dr. Mogherini insisted that Israel must protect the Ancient Ones from settler violence -- and never mind what the police blotter shows for Yosh in the number of settler attacks on Arabs vs. Arab attacks on settlers.

And as for considering that the arson was a "terrorist attack in every respect," I disagree. It is enough to consider it old-fashioned, time-tested homicide, murder, which requires capital punishment. But enlightened Israel doesn't like capital punishment.

Indeed, if I were Bibi, I would announce that if indeed a Jew was the perpetrator in that Arab village, he, as prime minister, would personally execute the killer in public with a bullet to the head.

What comes to mind is the episode in Lawrence of Arabia in which a clan war is about to erupt in the encampment over some insult, and the only solution was for Lawrence, not belonging to either clan, to execute the malefactor, which turned out to be the very man he personally had saved from death in the desert not so long before.

Whatever the historical truth of that episode, it made for great cinema as Peter O'Toole takes out his pistol and shoots him dead, which restored peace in the camp.

So if I were Bibi, I would announce to the world that if indeed a Jew did this dastardly deed, this satanic murder, I, Bibi, would personally execute the murderer.

On the good side of the news ledger today was the report of Ben Stein, the Jewish American writer, comic actor, in his regular column in the American Spectator where he went further out than anyone else (if not yet all the way) in describing Obama for what and who he is. He said the Iran deal is “so bad it could not be an accident.”

Bless you, sir. Of course not. It is intentional.

He said, “We have basically been swindled into allowing the world’s foremost state-sponsor of terrorism to have nuclear weapons without any penalty indeed with cash and prizes. Iran has sworn to use these weapons to obliterate not only Israel but every Jew on earth. Again, this could not be an accident. It has to have been the working out of some deep unconscious rage at Israel, Jews, and at America by the top players in the administration...many of them Jewish or, like Kerry, partly Jewish. Mr. Obama has – as I have said before -- now signed Israel’s death warrant.”

Yes, sure. Ben Stein does not use the word antisemitism here or call him an antisemite but that is exactly what is being described. Some “deep unconscious rage at Israel, Jews and at America by the top players in the administration many of them Jewish.”

Two days ago, another story broke of Hillary Clinton in 2009 as the new secretary of state being advised by her husband’s former national security adviser Samuel “Sandy” Berger on how to deal with Prime Minister Netanyahu.

Of course, as John Kerry in his failed attempt at peace 2012-2014 was advised by Dr. Martin Indyk, PhD, so Dr. Sandy Berger, PhD advised Hillary how to put pressure on the prime minister of Israel.

Heaven forfend that Berger the national security adviser counsel her to leave Israel alone; to say that after 16 years of the bloody failure of the Oslo Peace Process, it was time to admit the truth that it failed and the two-state solution should be dropped down the memory hole of history. That is what he should have done but did not.

Instead, Sandy Berger, yet another IBJ, another Inside the Beltway Jew, when it comes to Israel, earns his keep by supporting the classical WASP position – the kind of WASP who belongs to a country club where no Jews are allowed – which is the chronically anti-Israel and pro-Arab position of the State Department.

What I also found interesting in this latest revealed facet of Hillary’s emails is how she addressed the problem of Israel not from any knowledge base or serious understanding of the Arab war against our freedom. Foreign affairs for her is about how to get Israel to do America’s bidding regardless of what is the right thing to do.

I don’t think this woman has ever had one original thought about the endless violence against us and our endless need to defend ourselves. The only thing in her head about Israel is what she reads in the New York Times and what the Jewboys at State tell her.

Who is this woman who thinks she has the right stuff to be the commander-in-chief of the United States armed forces? What group of people has she ever led, let alone during war time? Her performance during the Benghazi attack is proof of her ability under fire. Has she led ever any group? Was she the captain of her high school field hockey team? Did she ever run a business? What cause as a senator did she champion and author legislation and shepherd it through the Senate?

There is something very, very wrong and disturbing in the United States these days when one of the two traditional parties has no one but her to be their standard-bearer.

There is something very wrong when the president himself is a friend of two of the worst people in recent American history, Bill Ayres and Bernadine Dohrn and friendly with PLO-supporting Arabs like the late Edward Said and his successor Rashid Khalidi; something wrong when Obama's secretary of state was a traitor to his fellow soldiers, calling their criminals; a traitor to his country by meeting with the enemy in Paris. How did it come to this that the United States is led by such reprehensible and contemptible, dangerous and incompetent people as these three, and their contemptible Jewboy advisers?

Ben Stein has come closer than others in nailing Obama for the anti-Jew that he is without using the word antisemite, which may be more effective. Accusing Obama of being an antisemite might tend to shut down minds. I liked his expression "deep unconscious rage at Israel." It is an effective substitute for speaking the truth directly.

Still, it is a taboo to call this man what he is in public, an antisemite.

I can just see the reaction of more than half of America's nominal Jews were that ever to happen. They would flinch as nominal Jew Geraldo Rivera flinched when Mike Huckabee did not retract his reference to the "doors to the ovens" when talking of Obama's Iran deal. Geraldo had an attack of the vapors, just like Abe Foxman. This, unfortunately, is the reaction of the same 80% of Americans who call themselves Jews who voted for Obama twice.

On Monday, Adam Schiff, representing a congressional district inside LA country touching on West Hollywood, Heaven help us, went to the baptismal font and pledged his faith in the Iran deal.

Last week, it was reported that of the 151 Jewish federations around the country, only 8 had come out against this deal. Once again, these are the 80% of American Jews on their way out.

The Sages taught us to read a certain verse in the book of Exodus to suggest that 80% of the Jews in Egypt refused to leave, and thus perished in the plague of darkness. Yes, they disappeared into the gentile society around them. That was their choice.

And today this 80% are encouraged to support the Iran deal even by some Israelis, the male counterparts to deep thinkers like our Tsipi Livni. That was a news story today. The JPost headline was, "Former top security officials call for a new foreign policy. Iran deal done, now is time for the two-state solution"

Puh-leeze. This the same old crowd of Ami Ayalon raised in a Labor Party kibbutz, a physical fitness freak and former head of the Israeli equivalent of the U.S. Navy Seals awarded the highest medal in Israel for valor; he was quite a fighter. Then he was head of the GSS that rides herd on the Arab terrorists inside the country, but he still remains is a kibbutz-raised naïf whose partner in peace-planning was once Sari Nusseibeh, the Arab who spied for the Iraqis during the Gulf Scud War of 1991. Ami Ayalon is still big on the two-state solution and thinks that if Israel supports the Iran deal, this will mend fences with the American administration. He hasn't got a clue as to who Barack Hussein really is. Ben Stein should clue him in.

With him in this article was Amram Mitzna, another kibbutz provincial. Amiram Levine as well, another outstanding commando, but so what? Their derring-do in battle may be legendary, but so what? That experience has nothing to do with understanding the United States, understanding Europe, confronting Islam, the Arabs, the Turks, the Persians. These men are all over their heads.

* * (Musical Interlude) * *

So, let's see, if the government has acted foolishly in pronouncing that act of arson on Friday an act of terrorism by Jewish terrorists, before there is an investigation, it has nonetheless done the right thing in arresting on Sunday the now notorious Sheik Khaled al-Mughrabi who lately has been preaching in Al-Aqsa Mosque the vilest fantasies about us Jews.

For example, he has been teaching what is common knowledge, that Jews capture and murder non-Jewish children and put them in barrels and stick them with needles to suck out their blood in order to make matzo. And it was because of this, he said, the German people did what they did to the Jews; it was the Jews themselves who brought on the Holocaust – while of course men like will say this but on alternate days insist the Holocaust never happened.

He has taught that Judaism teaches Jews to hate all other nations; that they control Hollywood and masterminded 9-11 and manufacture new diseases that they spread around the world in order to make people sick and then, because 95% of all pharmaceutical companies are owned by Jews, invent the cures that people are forced to buy and make these companies rich.

So Israel finally arrested this nutcase -- congratulations -- only I fear they will in the end not do the right thing, which was done in a similar case in 1967. The great Six-Day War happened in June and I think before the year was out, the top dog preacher in Al-Aqsa was preaching resistance to the Israeli presence, calling for rebellion.

For this, after prayers one Friday, he was arrested by the Shin Bet, as it was still called in those days, driven immediately down to the Allenby Bridge on the Jordan River and kicked out of the country into Jordan. They did not even give him time enough to go home first and pack a few things. He was kicked out of the country with the clothes on his back. That is what should be done to this guy.

Of course Dr. Mogherini and all the Enlightened people in the world starting with the IBJs would howl in protest at this violation of his rights, of the absence of due process, to which the prime minister should answer that he is not a citizen of Israel but an enemy alien whom Israel will no longer permit to spew his antisemitic filth in our holy city.

The prime minister should tell the world that if he wants to talk like that and say these things about Jews, he can do that in the Grand Mosque in Mecca. Here, on our Temple Mount, he is not going to do it anymore.

This is our capital, our holy city, our Temple Mount, and we will not permit this Nazi-like liar and lunatic to spew his antisemitic fantasies about alleged Jewish evil.

We Jews, he should say, not just the Ancient Ones, have rights too, including the right to have our religion respected, our peoplehood respected. The State of Israel will not tolerate Muslims hallucinating on our Temple Mount about alleged Jewish evil.
