Shalom laYehudim, Shalom laBnai Noach, Shalom laGoyim. It's the evening of the 2nd day, tes-zion beElul, Parashas Ki Savo, the evening of the 1st day, Sunday, 30 August 2015, webcasting from the Land of Israel and its clueless Israelis.

Yes, it is a point I keep returning to for its centrality in our lives here. The one major downside to the restoration of Jewish life here has been the creation of arguably the most ignorant community of Jews when it comes to understanding the goyim in history and in our time. Although, ironically, Israel's Enlightened, the secular ruling class, sees itself as oh so cosmopolitan when compared to traditional Jews, the truth is that most of them live in and grew up in "ghettos," Jews only, no less than Jews throughout the ages.

No less than, for example, the Satmar Hasidim in Kiryas Yoel in Monroe, New York, Orange County, north of New York City. Israelis like Yossi Beilin grew up in a neighborhood in which everyone was a Jew. He went to school, K-12, with Jews only, and as a result, had even less contact with gentiles than the most cloistered Jews in the Diaspora, and therefore, he and the Enlightened are oblivious to the irrational hostility of too many gentiles even today post-Holocaust.

Take, for example, a small item in JPost by Khalid Abu Toameh on Friday, about the PLO, disguised as the Palestinian Authority that will not close down, as reported before, an NGO in Ramallah, capital of the Authority, the Ancient Palestinians' great metropolis. At issue is the local branch of the so-called Geneva Initiative, the Palestinian Peace Coalition. Last week, the Holocaust Denier Abbas issued a "presidential decree" -- and never mind he has not been president for five years now; that is how much these Ancient Palestinians know of self-government – a decree to shut down the PCC and seize its assets apparently as part of his efforts to “silence his political opponents and critics.” Heading the PCC, you see, is Yasir Abed Rabbo whom Abbas recently dismissed as secretary-general of the PLO after Abbas suspected Abd Rabbo of being part of a scheme to undermine him.

Abd Rabbo, you remember, was the partner of Dr. Beilin the famous scientist in their so-called Geneva Initiative, which was nothing but their attempt after the Oslo fiasco to keep it going. They began work in Geneva and ultimately finished a document and held a media event, a signing ceremony declaring that their text should be the final peace agreement between Israel and the Ancient Palestinians. And it was called the Geneva Initiative for that fact and the fact that its financial backers have been the government of Switzerland.

You got that? This is an NGO that is a front organization for a European government, and in fact, so many of the hundreds of NGOs based in Judea and Samaria to care for the victims of us racist, fascist imperialist Jews are fronts for many of Europe’s more than two dozen states. Individual governments support them; the continental bureaucracy of the EU based in Brussels supports them.

In effect, all of these support groups in Gaza, Judea and Samaria who pay the salaries of thousands, who spend their money in these areas, are really fronts for European peoples who have hated the Jews in every generation for thousands of years. Palestinian Nationalism is just this generation’s masquerade.

After the Holocaust, it was no longer acceptable in polite society to rave about Jews and their evil plots to rule the world via their satanic beliefs and practices. The way to hate the Jews post-Holocaust is to support the “Palestinian” cause, which cause is “justice for the victims of the Jews.”

In a nutshell, one wonders to what extent your average, post-Jewish Israeli understands that the entirety of the Palestinian National movement is just age-old Jew-hatred in modern dress. You know, you can do Shakespeare in modern dress, his vision of the Shylock in modern dress. You see sometimes in the talkbacks anti-Jews who post that Israelis have been extorting billions in American foreign aid, with the implication, of course, that poor American people suffer because of that.

I doubt that many Israelis are sensitive to the underlying irrational hatred of Jews at work on the ground via the Arabs and their backers around the world.

These are the same Israelis who keep trying to get the UN to change its ways and basically free itself of its addiction to Israel-bashing. People here have no idea how the UN is addicted in all of its organs, bodies, agencies and departments to Israel-bashing. For example, take a recent briefing to the Security Council by originally American diplomat Jeffrey D. Feltman, now Undersecretary-General for Political Affairs and head of the United Nations Department of Political Affairs where Feltman “oversees the UN's diplomatic efforts to prevent and mitigate conflict worldwide.”

Prior to that he had been with the State Department for many years in a variety of positions including Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs, Ambassador to Lebanon, former assistant in Tel-Aviv's embassy to Dr. Martin Indyk, PhD. and it's a fair bet Feltman is another board certified Jewboy, though I am not sure about that.

But let's put that aside for the moment. In this instance, it is irrelevant. He is now a full-time employee of the UN and as such delivered a briefing the other day reported on by Liat Collins in Friday's JPost. Having studied the UN for so long as I have, I should not be surprised by this report but it never ceases to amaze. It seems Feltman's briefing to the Security Council was entitled, "The Situation in the Middle East." It ran to about 2,000 words and Liat Collins said more than 1,600 of them were dedicated to the situation between Israel and Gaza. "I address you at a time when the risk of escalation in Israel and Palestine is palpable. The past month has witnessed unconscionable crimes of hatred by extremist elements, reprehensible retaliatory violence, provocations at Jerusalem's holy sites, and a worrying increase in rockets launched from Gaza towards Israel. The coming days will mark the one-year anniversary of the conclusion of last year's devastating Gaza conflict, a conflict from which the Palestinians of Gaza have yet to recover."

And as Collins commented, "That Israelis also continue to suffer from trauma and fears following that 50-day mini-war either didn't occur to Feltman or didn't seem to be worth mentioning."

Yes, this is antisemitism, though one wonders who in Israel notices. From Gaza came flights of projectiles last summer, each one intended to murder Jews at random. Israel fired projectiles back specifically targeting the rocket-launcher boys, not people at random, yet the focus of pity and concern here is on the people in Gaza who in 2006 voted for Hamas and attended their rallies in the hundreds of thousands.

Feltman went on to repeat Secretary-General Ban Ki Moon's "strong condemnation of the horrific terrorist arson attack against a Palestinian family in the occupied West Bank village of Duma, during the early hours of 31 July, apparently committed by extremist Jewish settlers."

And never mind no culprit has been identified, and "apparently," to all appearances, it seems likely to have been perpetrated by Arabs. Yet here Jews are already convicted.

Feltman's diplomatic expertise also produced the following. He called for continuing to strive for peace, "But over 20 years failed negotiations have bred mistrust and worse, the slow and painful withering of hope. In such a contentious environment, restoring confidence, before a return to realistic negotiations is a must."

And I say this guy has his head far up where the sun don't shine. He calls for "restoring confidence," and I ask, when was there ever confidence? He calls for "returning to realistic negotiations," when I say such negotiations were never realistic. They were always based on the provincial, ghetto-minds of Peres and Beilin and Rabin who never seemed to have a clue as to the depth of the irrational hatred of Jews among these so-called Balestinians, a word that is camouflage for Arabs and Muslims.

Liat Collins pointed out that at the UN, Israel is the only country whose anti-terrorism measures are reviewed regularly by the UN.

And I say this too is antisemitism in modern dress.

To repeat, Feltman's speech was about the "situation in the Middle East. 2,000 words, 1,600 of them about Israel and its victims, with two paragraphs at the end introduced this way. "A few words about the situation in Lebanon and Syria."

You got that? "A few words." Lebanon has been invaded by about a million homeless Syrians, which country is now being dictated to by Iran. Syria no longer exists as a country. Maybe a quarter of its 23 million people are homeless refugees inside their own country or in camps in Turkey and Jordan, besides the one million in Lebanon.

And here is Jeffrey Feltman reporting on the situation in devastated Gaza.

Yes indeed, it's the same-old same-old anti-Jew venom only disguised in our time, and sometimes not so disguised. On Thursday in Zurich, once again in Switzerland, in a fancy hotel, hundreds of Swiss and Iranian businessmen came together to listen to a speech by the Swiss ambassador to Iran. Switzerland has been the first out of the blocks in racing to Teheran to make money. I don't think they even honored the sanctions formally to begin with.

The Swiss ambassador, one Giulio Hass, praised Iran as a "pole of stability in a very, very unsafe region." And never mind that the region is so unsafe due to violence backed everywhere by the Iranians. He urged Swiss businessmen not to delay in their efforts in Iran as a lucrative market with a population of 80 million.

And he also, apparently taking a page out of Prime Minister Netanyahu's book of using some visual aid during his speech, displayed a political cartoon depicting two doves, presumably of peace, each defecating on the head of our prime minister.

Later, following Israel's protest, the Swiss department of foreign affairs issued a statement "regretting the use of this cartoon and considers it tasteless."

Presumably, the artist wanted to convey the message that doves of peace don't like the prime minister of Israel because he is opposed to peace and to mutually beneficial commerce between peoples. You know these Jews.

This too is age-old antisemitism, though I doubt Israel's formal protest used that word.

Nor will Israelis see antisemitism in that video of Arab girls and women on Friday attacking with their hands and fingernails one Israeli soldier trying to arrest a boy who had thrown stones at him and his mates. They say this video went viral, and one can only wonder what people saw in it. Sort of like a Rorschach ink blot, I think. What I saw was unbelievable restraint on the soldier's part. If our soldiers were the monsters antiJews imagine, he would not have stood for what they did to him. He would have picked up each girl over his head and thrown her like sacks of potatoes to crash down and break her head and bones on the rocky ground. But he did not do that.

And one wonders how alert our soldiers are to these endless attempts by the Arabs in this age of cell phones with cameras to stage such confrontations in order to act out their aggression against us evil Jews.

When a Muslim makes his pilgrimage to Mecca, his hajj, he makes the rounds on foot to several stations, and at his final station he throws rocks at pillars symbolizing Satan. And for many of these primitive people, Jews are seen as demons and devils. According to the Koran, we are a Muslim's No. 1 enemy in this life, and here in this video are these girls clawing at the Jew, who of course has no right to defend himself when being stoned, which he is trying to do by grabbing that boy.

I know for a fact from my own research into primary sources, like reading the diaries of Americans held hostage in Islam two centuries and the correspondence of foreign consuls and their wives two centuries ago that throwing stones at Jews has been pretty common in Islam for, one supposes, the entirety of its brutish history.

I hope the IDF learns from this video that went viral and likely was planned ahead of time to go this way.

Elsewhere, this time in Judea, on Saturday night, an Arab-driven vehicle tried to run over a bunch of IDF soldiers at the Ari junction south of Hebron and last night as well in Samaria a Jew driving his car was overtaken by an Arab vehicle from which came gunfire that wounded the Jew in the arm. Thank G-d it was no worse.

And of course the Security Council and Jeffrey Feltman will surely take no notice, for attacking Jews is understandable when they are in "illegal occupation" of land that does not belong to them – and never mind no one at the UN said that for years after 1967. Res. 242 of November of that year six months after the Six-Day War implicitly was at peace with Israel's presence in Judea and Samaria as it called for a future peace but no immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces. The lines to which they might withdraw were yet to be negotiated. Their presence was therefore not illegal. And legally speaking, nothing since then has changed in this regard. Israel is, according to international law, the legal ruler in Judea and Samaria pending future peace negotiations.

Therefore, no Arabian has the right to fire a gun at a Jew in Judea and Samaria, but no UN body will chastise the Arabs for this aggression against Jews.

This too is the age-old acceptance of violence against us for which there is no penalty. On the contrary, it is as perfectly understandable today as it has always been.

On Friday, there was yet another moment for future historians to observe and puzzle over. From the White House, the President of the United States addressed the American Jewish community in a live webcast sponsored by the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations and the Jewish Federations of North America, by and large people of Jewish extraction who do not live Jewish lives. Maybe that is why they haven't got the brains and self-respect not to listen to this man who I am persuaded is very much an Arab in his soul who lives from one lie to the next. After all these years in office and his knives in the back to Israel (note the plural), what are they doing co-sponsoring a webcast by the president who fed them as always rivers of taurine excreta? He told them that after Congress votes on his deal with Iran next month, the U.S. and Israeli policy will realign "pretty quick." He said he was committed to "maintaining Israel's qualitative military edge in the region and to preventing the flow of Iranian arms to its proxies on Israel's borders. We're all pro-Israel," he said. "We're all family."

I wish it were possible to meet this guy and punch him out. That is what such taurine excreta out of his mouth makes me want to do. He was just mouthing the old clichés that now have absolutely nothing to do with reality. What can he possibly mean when he says he will "maintain Israel's qualitative edge" after giving our mortal enemy 150 billion dollars and permission to go ahead and build an atomic bomb? In his campaign for president and in the early years of his time in office, he was adamant that Iran would never have an atomic bomb, and here he is precisely carrying the opposite of that promise.

This chronic liar appealed to the Enlightened in crusading -- his words are cheap -- against nuclear weapons and said how it was his dream to rid the world of them, and here he is overseeing the world's Number 1 terror state and sworn enemy of the U.S. in its quest to build atomic bombs and in the process likely launch a nuclear arms race in the Middle East.

This guy was given a Nobel Prize by antisemitic Scandinavians for it was already clear after his election in 2008 that he was an anti-Jew crusader who would back the Ancient Ones against the Jews. He did not deserve that Nobel Prize for peace but he certainly would deserve a Nobel Prize, if there were a category, for greatest taurine excreta artist.

And notice this liar claiming to these foolish Jews how "We are all pro-Israel. We're all family." You know how Obama even leads a Passover Seder in the White House and how he has advertised himself as the most Jewish president in history.

Again, he deserves to be smacked in the mouth for this stream of lies and deceit. It is like his occasional speeches on global warming and the environment. There too he appeals to the Enlightened in the States, when I don't think he gives a damn derriere about the environment. What? When he was in the Senate, was that a major crusade of his? It certainly was not in his years in the Illinois State Senate when he rarely took sides on any issue. He just gives speeches from time to time on the environment to mark time and create the illusion of doing something positive for the people of America.

He also told those American Jews about his Iran plan, "We aren't normalizing relations with Iran here."

This guy is a phony, a con man, a congenital liar who tells people what they want to hear but, as he impressed me the first time I saw him, I don't think he believes anything that comes out his mouth.

I predict that historians of the future will conclude that when he campaigned on “fundamentally changing America,” he above all was bent on changing America’s support for Israel, turning it into homicidal hostility.

This son of a female canine wants to give 150 billion dollars to Iran, a piece of which will surely wind up in Hezbollah and Hamas hands in the form of Jew-killing weapons.

He campaigned on never allowing Iran to have atomic weapons and here he is in plain sight seeing to it that they do have them; atomic bombs in the hands of shameless Muslim lunatics who in their public cries want to obliterate the State of Israel, G-d forbid.

This webcast on Friday co-sponsored by so-called American Jewish leaders is also more evidence of the demise of American Jewry which for a century has been dominated by such post-religious types.

Their constant kowtowing to Obama is just pathetic.
