Shalom laYehudim, Shalom laBnai Noach, Shalom laGoyim. It's the evening of the 6th day, yud beMar Heshvan, Parashas Lech Lecha, tav-shin-ayin-vav, the evening of the 5th day, Thursday, 22 October 2015, webcasting from the Land of Israel, Land of Truth hated by the world.

I'll once again leave it to the Israeli news sites to keep you up to date on the number of attempted murders and the killing of the would-be murderers, like a dozen incidents-plus in just the last 12 hours and even more than that in the last 48 hours since the last webcast. Soldiers hit by cars and stabbings, a girl soldier grievously stabbed, whose fellow girl soldier shot the stabber dead. Good for her.

The good news is the behavior of Yair Lapid in London yesterday speaking to reporters and being interviewed on the BBC's Hard Talk TV program and finally, so to speak, "getting it." Not only did he fire back at today's Grub Street scribes for their bizarre, anti-Jew coverage of the current, which is only the latest Jew-killing operation; much more important was his declaring that the violence is wholly religious and has nothing to do with so-called Balestinian Nationalism.

In fact, I put up the link to this; put me on hold; open another browser, open the posted link and watch the video, 2-3 minutes, then get back to me.

...Okay? You've seen this video? Notice how Stephen Sackur the interviewer almost pleaded in his request of Lapid to admit that frustrations of the Ancient Ones under occupation are the driving force here.

But Lapid was firm. (His English was also better than in the past.) This is the first time I have ever agreed with him about anything, and that is good news, as I say, because he epitomizes the post-Jewish Israelis of the “peace camp” here of the last two decades who are hostile to us settlers; who are all in favor of the Two-State Solution. Finally, here is Lapid who gets it. It is the fire of religion, of hamas, which is related to the word ham, which means “hot” in both Hebrew and Arabic that fuels this satanic, bloodthirsty stabbing jamboree. Hamas in Hebrew is the name of the worst of mankind’s sins before the great Flood and really “the straw that broke the camel’s back” and persuaded the Lord to cleanse the entire earth, to dip the globe, so to speak, into a great, cleansing bath. Hamas for Jews is the worst in human behavior; for the Arabs, it is the highest level of piety when the Believers murder as many Jews as they can at random and kill themselves in the process. Hamas is religious zeal and passion so powerful it drives a person to kill himself for Allah.

How unAbrahamic this behavior is; what a crock the cliché about “the three great Abrahamic religions.” Abraham was the kindest man in the world in his age. His G-d in the end did not want him to sacrifice his son, versus today’s Muslim parent who smiles as junior blows himself and lots of Jews at the same time in order to get to paradise.

Abraham’s G-d orders the Children of Israel as well to “Choose life,” and the great Rambam and others write of giving up one’s life for HaShem as something to be avoided, if not always. There are certain conditions in which one must become a martyr. But don’t go looking for it. How opposite this is to Islam’s rapturous attachment to murder and suicide. It is nonsense that Islam is an Abrahamic religion.

Also pleasing in the news of Lapid’s London visit, besides the BBC interview: he wrote an op-ed for the Jewish News newspaper and remarked on the “persecution,” his word, in the local media, the persecution of Israel. “In a long series of false reports and distortions of the truth, these British journalists create the impression that the victim is the aggressor, that the ones protecting themselves are the murderers, that Israel has no right to defend itself.”

Indeed. More than once I’ve described life for you in historic Islam for Jews over the ages in which self-defense was considered an act of aggression. And here is Yair Lapid seeing that same behavior in our time, in London, England of all places.

He also intimated, without being specific - he still does not want to be “too Jewish” -- that the number of incorrect headlines in the British press, the number of incorrect reports, misleading headlines, distortions of act, these total falsifications of the truth” show that “ something is clearly wrong.” He did not say so but the implication clearly is antisemitism.

Well, at least he has now come around to seeing the religious dimension of the violence here as something apart from the so-called “Palestinian” issue. And this is a start. Eventually he and his community of post-Jewish, ruling class types here will see that it has always been a religious conflict and Balestinian nationalism so-called just a smoke screen, camouflage, a way of covering up the religious energy really at work here.

I mentioned last time that I was conducting a running “debate,” if we can call it that, with someone posting on my book’s Facebook page who I thought had at the beginning was a well-intentioned young fellow, misinformed by his college professors on the Arab war of annihilation against us.

Now I see, though, he is just, tragically, another contemporary antiJew who thrives on fantasies and conspiracies floating in the cesspool of mental poison that is his mind and out there in the Blogosphere. But no more. He has now said that Israel started the Six Day War and there are “documented histories,” his expression, that show that without of course naming even one.

Now I see not a misinformed fellow but yet another sample of a crazed person in our time. Unlike generations of his predecessors, he does not believe in Jews as Christ-killers or even that we need human blood for make matza, but he does believe one crackpot accusation about Zionism and the State of Israel after another which emits with the same flavor of kookiness.

Indeed, what is scary is how like the Arabs this American fellow has become. The Arabs, as we have seen these past three weeks, are endless founts of lies about the alleged perfidy of the Jews who executed Arab boys at random for no reason; who are planning to build a temple inside al-Aqsa Mosque, and so on and so forth.

I remember when Hillary Clinton was here in 1998 and met with Arafat’s wife who lectured their audience on Jews poisoning the wells.

This kind of sub-civilized mental behavior that is so common among the Arabs is also rife among others. In that BBC interview with Lapid, Stephen Sackur clearly has the narrative of the “crucifixion of the Palestinians” in his mind and recoils at Lapid’s truthful report that this is the “Allahu Akbar” generation doing this with their knives and :Palestinian” statehood has nothing to do with it. These Arab assassins are not in the business of liberating just Judea and Samaria to create a cute little state next door. They are nakedly up front about their desire for the total obliteration of the State of Israel,

G-d forbid. They are as bent on homicide as the Muslims here were in 1929 here who butchered 137 Jews in three days. In that year, there were no Israelis and no Palestinians as those terms are used today. There were Jews and Muslims and for Islamic reasons then the Muslims did what they did. It was the same, demonic hatred of Jews as today, both times with no connection to statehood in just Judea and Samaria for a putatively Paleolithic Palestinian people.

Interviewer Stephen Sackur, like the entirety of the MSM’s top-of-the-line journalists, is clearly made uncomfortable by a Lapid talking religion and really Islamic aggression when Sackur wants to talk of “Palestinian” victimization at the hands Israel.

Well, I hope the next time in a similar interview the next Israeli interviewee says there was no “Palestinian” victimization in 1929, or during the pogrom in Jaffa in 1921 or the pogrom in Jerusalem in 1920. What ignited those satanic Jew-killing sprees is Islam and it still remains the fuel in the nuclear core of their war against Israel whose frontline troops are Arabs and Muslims but behind the scenes their financiers and backers are the MSM and hostile goy nations worldwide.

There was also good news today or at least satisfaction in reading of Bibi's remarks two days ago as he toured the southern border. He said, "The false claim that an increase in settlement construction led to this latest wave of terrorism, is simply a lie." He also said that the characterization of a massive settlement drive is "patently absurd" and said, "those who believe that do so with religious fervor."

Bravo, Bibi, for his oblique riposte here to the antiJew crack made by John Kerry that it was "massive settlement" building that ignited the current terror.

In fact, as the PM's office showed, of the last three prime ministers, Ehud Barak presided over the most housing starts; Olmert was in second place, Bibi in third.

This was a gratifying story for exposing the anti-Jew kind of John Kerry delusion about Jewish aggression against the Balestinians.

Interesting too how Bibi used the term "religious fervor" here because I suspect he sees the underlying religious hatred of Jews in our time as it existed in earlier times. This crackpot on my Facebook page has accused Israel of racism and imperialism and ethnic cleansing, and of fascism, flinging these terms around with no serious understanding of them. He seems to be repeating what world antiJewry is saying these days, parroting the conventional wisdom which clearly is also on display in the mind of a John Kerry who sees a "massive increase in settlements over the course of the last, and now you have this violence because there is frustration that is growing."

And here we have the facts that there was no massive increase in settlements. This crackpot on my page suggested Israel was engaged in ethnic cleansing every day and that is an accusation of the same order.

In every generation, there are people whose minds are polluted with images of Jews up to no damn good, when of course, like Jesus the Jew who at the end of his life is laden with all the sins, all the guilt of mankind, today's Jews are the greatest criminals whose criminality is demonstrably at the center of United Nations operations.

Yes, UNESCO's Executive Board yesterday, as expected, condemned Israeli aggression on the Temple Mount and "decries the continuing Israeli targeting of civilians including religious figures, sheiks and priests and injuries among Muslim worshippers by the occupying power." The statement said nothing of the Western Wall, thank G-d, but the Executive Board also ruled that the plaza before the Western Wall created, as I mentioned last time, by Israel, is Islamic property and called it the Burqa Plaza which is an "integral part of Al-Aqsa Mosque," and never mind there is no connection between them. They also proclaimed Rachel's Tomb an Islamic shrine.

JPost also reported that the resolution was the first ever with no mention of the Temple Mount and its importance to the Jewish people.

I read that and all could think of was Orwell's scary, futuristic fantasy novel and satire of the Soviet Union called 1984 whose central character Winston Smith works in the Ministry of Truth, and it is his job every day to re-write the previous day's news and flush yesterday's newspaper down the Memory Hole.

Islam really is at war with history. Think of how they destroyed the Buddha statues in Afghanistan 15 years ago and last month the ancient ruins at Palmyra. Think of their numerous assaults on the Tomb of Joseph mentioned in Roman records which the Muslims in our time claim is the tomb of a Muslim holy man that the Jews stole from them.

The Torah itself, the Muslims claim, was stolen by the Jews from the Koran.

I think for its own dignity and self-respect Israel has to stop abasing itself by being a member of the UN. It is demeaning to have to pay attention to UNESCO or the Human Rights Commission, forums that are clearly the playgrounds of antiJew crackpots, slaves basically of the Muslim bloc of states who can order up terrorist attacks on a country's embassy if the country doesn't vote the way the Arabs and Muslims want.

Islam today is the new Soviet Union at its worst; the new Communist China at its worst, the new Nazi Germany for its habit of burning books like Nazis, destroying archeological artifacts on the Temple Mount and as in Iraq and in Syria. For their rape of history, they are enemies of civilization and must be stood up to and stopped.

Not that Israel's enlightened High Court has joined the battle. Today the Court ordered a halt to house demolitions by the IDF of the homes of these terrorists. It seems the Jewish antiJews in the New Israel Fund funded a petition to the Court to call for a halt and made some kind of argument.

Minister Naftali Bennet blasted the Court in this "time of emergency." He said, "Any delay hurts deterrence and risks human lives." His party also issued a statement that said that the NIF had "reached a new peak of Jew-hatred." Good for them.

Minister of Tourism Yuval Levin also said the Court has "once again broken its own records of absurdity in a decision that borders on the delusional as it has tied the hands of the prime minister and the security forces at the peak of the terror wave."

Indeed. On the other hand, the Court does seem to reflect the identity crisis of post-Jewish Israelis with decisions like this. It seems our judges have a problem seeing that these terrorists are not fellow Israelis, not fellow Jews, not loyal citizens but belong to an enemy people openly aspiring to destroy Israel. It is simply wrong to relate to them as if they were fellow citizens with an equal demand on limited government and the rights of the citizens. They are not citizens but our mortal enemies.

I see in the Jerusalem Post Magazine every Friday now, since they hired a new editor, one Laura Kelly - sounds like the daughter of any Irish gentile man -- who is constantly doing human interest stories on the Balestinians in Judea and Samaria as if they were members of our community.

And now we have this High Court which is also confused. Israel has no choice but swift and merciless punishment after each terror horror. The families of these knife boys must immediately be paid a visit by the IDF with enough manpower to immediately drive all the people inside into the street; to empty all the contents of the house into the street; blow up the home then leave.

Every suicide boy has got to know the consequences of his satanic murder of Jews in our ancient homeland.

* * (Musical Interlude) * *

So the good news in this latest wave of homicidal terror continues to be the unification of the people of Israel and the fresh awareness that our enemies are savage Muslims with whom no mutually agreed upon, cooperative arrangement west of the River is possible.

What Israel has a right to do and should do is formally declare sovereignty everywhere west of the river, offer respectful, non-voting resident alien status to the locals and become merciless to those who resist our rule. Expulsion, capital punishment, corporal punishment. A menu of punishments excluding long-term prison time, which is a waste of money.

It is gratifying, finally, to see a Yair Lapid and whom he represents be able to see the religious drive at work here and not a Balestinian nationalist freedom fight. That's a great first step.

Also of great benefit is the full-bore Arab-Muslim mocking of Jewish history, that is, lying about our history here. That too is a great first step to the ultimate goal of realizing that their lies today about their violence are the result of Israel accepting the lies of Palestinian Nationalism altogether. That is as much a trashing of history as destroying the ruins at Palmyra or denying the Holocaust. Holocaust Denial has now been joined by Temple Mount Denial for all Israelis to see and may they also soon see the historical hoax of the Balestinians.

The step after that would be standing up to the hoax and exposing it to the world. For example, the prime minister was in Germany yesterday where he met Chancellor Angela Merkel who, though a long-standing Israeli sympathizer, said the following: "Israel has the obligation to protect it citizens but the means have to be commensurate with the goals."

That of course is a nod to the accusations of disproportionality that Israel is always guilty of.

She also said, "Young Palestinians need a perspective and unilateral steps are not helpful."

She of course did not say what steps she had in mind. It was a general admonition to Israel to do nothing without permission from the "victims of Zionism."

And in saying "young Palestinians need a perspective," she salutes their lack of something that they are entitled to which they are not getting and that is why they stab Jews to death because they are deprived of this "perspective." Israel has to promise them something and deliver if Israel wants them to put away their knives.

She also said, “We think a two-state solution is the best possibility for Israel. The settlements are counterproductive and everything should be done to calm the situation.”

Not a word about Islam here. She also called on Abbas to “condemn everything that constitutes an act of terrorism. One can’t have open talks with Israel if this does not happen.”

You can just hear the voice of her foreign ministry that is the voice of all Western foreign ministries. Yes, Israel has the obligation to defend its existence that Germany supports, but it must establish the Two-State Solution.

I also can’t stand the expression, an “act of terrorism.” Abbas, she says, must “condemn acts of terrorism.” How about telling him to tell his people to stop murdering Jews? These words and expressions like “acts of terrorism” are worn out and no longer evoke the events they refer to.

Angela Merkel professes her own long-standing support for Israel and of Germany’s special relationship to Israel and Germany’s obligation to defend Israel. But when the chips are down, all she has are words that also cater to the perverse desires of our mortal enemies.

She also exercises no control over German businesses that lead the way in selling to Iran almost everything they need to build an atomic bomb. In a way, Merkel’ sympathy for is a smoke screen behind which these modern-day Junkers hide.

* * (Musical Interlude) * *

And that was Psalms 31:25 and 51:19.

Lastly, there was a bit of a kerfuffle here today because in Germany yesterday Bibi misspoke and seemingly accused Hitler of being Haj Amin’s pupil when it came to destroying all the Jews. Of course he did not mean that, and perhaps his chronology was a little off track. His political enemies jumped down his throat but I think this will pass.

The facts of history are what they are. Haj Amin al-Husseini fled to Berlin for safety from the Brits who tried to arrest him several times. In 1937, he fled Palestine to Damascus until the Brits liberated Syria from Vichy rule in 1941 and had to flee from there to Baghdad. And when Baghdad was retaken after a revolt by the Arabs against the British, he fled to Teheran. And when the Brits and Russians invaded Iran to keep the shah from joining the Axis, he fled to Berlin where Hitler gave him a Jewish townhouse to live in and paid him handsomely for service to the Third Reich.

Well, that kind of lunatic Muslim hatred of Jews remains alive. What was in his black heart then continues to percolate this very week among his spiritual offspring in what he called “South Syria.”
