

B"H

DeProgram Program

From the Mind of Sha'i ben-Tekoa

Transcript

<http://www.deprogramprogram.com>

Date: November 8, 2015 / כו מר חשון תשע"ו

Parasha: Toldos / תולדות

Title: Intifada 3.0

Copyright: Sha'i ben-Tekoa 2015

www.deprogramprogram.com

Shalom laYehudim, Shalom laBnai Noach, Shalom laGoyim. It is the evening of the 2nd day, kaf-zion beMar Heshvan, Parashas Toldos, tav-shin-ayin-vav, the evening of the 1st day, Sunday, 8 November 2015, webcasting from what feels like Intifada 3.0.

I have not thought that thus far since October 1, when the latest cycle of satanic Jew-killing began. But I say so now because we are having to report on every webcast about the Jewish victims of these goy barbarians. The frequency is ratcheting up, it seems.

Since the last webcast 72 hours ago, around ten more, I think, Jews have been blooded by these sadistic goyim either by knifing or running them over on the road. Some are in serious condition.

On Friday evening, there was a new wrinkle in Hevron when a 16 year-old Ishmaelite with a plain old, long-barrel rifle shot an Israeli warrior in the head.

On Friday as well, a few kilometers north of Hevron, near Halhoul -- that is mentioned in the Book of Joshua, I think -- a 72-year-old widow of a Jew-killer killed in the last intifada connected to higher-ups in HAMAS drove into a clump of soldiers who jumped out of the way in time and shot her dead.

These lying Arabs of course reported that it was a regular car accident, that's all; ergo al-Yahud had no reason to murder her in cold blood the way they did.

Some Jews were run over at the Tapuah junction in Samaria, today. There was an attack last week at the Rami Levy store in Benyamin.

What I found somewhat encouraging was a poll of Israelis done by a think tank at Tel-Aviv U. according to which 53% of Israelis think that killing Arab attackers is good; no attempt need be made to arrest them. Absolutely right. This is an old Jewish dictum: "When someone comes to kill you, kill him first." It is no time to read him his Miranda rights or wait for the police to show up.

This really is a significant datum, I think, about our situation vis-à-vis these barbarians with their lunatic fantasy life and conscienceless, sadistic brutality. In the past, I've noted the confusion that these barbarians sow among the civilized, mixing the two cultures. HAMAS launches mortars and missiles at us, military weapons, at random into our homes, towns, farms, schools and synagogues to kill Jews at random, to destroy their property at random, destroy their livelihoods, but when the IDF invades Gaza to make them stop, our soldiers must act like policemen and be careful in going after the bad guys not to harm the "innocent civilians." An antisemitic Muslim like Barack Obama can affirm that, yes, al-Yahud as the right to self-defense but that means going after the rocket launcher boys only. Israel must be careful not harm to the "innocent civilians" among whom they hide.

Well, first of all, they are not innocent in my mind. There are perhaps 1.5 million of these eternal "refugees" who turn out in their hundreds of thousands for rallies for Fatah or Hamas or Islamic Jihad, exactly as German citizens thrilled to participate in torch-lit, Nazi parades in adulation of the Der Fuhrer, which is why, when at the end of the War, Allied bombers were flattening German cities, nobody in England and the US, where the bombers came from lost any sleep over that or thought there was something immoral about it. No one worried about "innocent civilians" in that situation.

I reject the notion that the civilians in Gaza who attend these rallies with their blood-curdling chants against Jews are innocent. On top of which, in free elections, they elected the Muslim Brotherhood/HAMAS.

And in a similar circumstance, when it comes to how to we relate to these homicidal Hamites in their current retail murder, a Jew is under no obligation, in uniform or out, to strive to arrest the attacking evil-doer. That would set in train legal proceedings that can lead to a trial -- a word suggesting that an idea, a hypothesis, is being tested in a court of law. At such time, a lawyer for the knife-wielding Muslim maniac may try to prove that it was a case of mistaken identity or the would-be murderer was influenced by an emotional older brother who is a big fan of Islam, and so on and so forth.

Well, in the case of sudden murderous attacks as we are seeing, no trial is needed to test the hypothesis that Ahmed or whatever his name is doing what he is doing and the proper response is to kill him, not try to disarm him, not arrest him, for what?

He also must be dispatched to protect Jews in the future. He must not be given another chance to murder anyone. Israel has a terrible record of arresting Jew-killers, putting them in prison for a time, then releasing them to kill again. The people who have died in these kill-again moments run into the hundreds.

This poll also records that almost 8 out of 10 people agree that the home of the attacker has to be demolished. This leads to one of the tragic flaws of Arab life: the absence of empathy which is characteristic in the West of psychopaths. Aspiring Jew-killers have to know for certain that if they go through with their evil fantasy, their family is going to be out on the street, their home demolished. Until a better response is devised, this retribution is not unjust. Murder one Jew and you do, to a degree, destroy a Jewish family. You bring everlasting sorrow on the victim's friends, parents, brothers, sisters, wives; children are made orphans. These Arabs are true barbarians for their absence of civilized, human fellow feeling even for one's enemy.

Think of the famous Christmas truce in World War I in the trenches, if only for a day, when the soldiers on the warring sides came out to play soccer with each other.

One of the great movies, Grand Illusion by Jean Renoir, also about WWI, is about French officers imprisoned by German officers and the politesse of gentlemen regardless of national lines.

Think as well of C.S. Forester who wrote the classic Horatio Hornblower series about a British Naval officer in the Napoleonic Era, in which the hero is captured by the French, but in a crisis is allowed to go free in order to save lives, on condition he promise to return afterwards. He gives his word, his parole, a French word for word, that he will return to captivity, and that is what happens.

Versus our neighbors who think nothing of chopping off the heads of their POWs. Like the savage Japanese at their worst during the Bataan Death March, Arabs treat their captured enemies as less than human with whom they can do anything and do.

So this public opinion is encouraging for reflecting a sober and thinking public, if not necessarily a new pressure in group in Yeshiva that wants to see the two Rami Levy supermarkets fire their Arab staff. They want Jewish laborers only. They are frightened, but I'm afraid they are going to be disappointed. We need them.

Last webcast, I referred to the 440 years in the age of the Judges in which the cardinal sin of the Children of Jacob-Israel was not dispossessing the Canaanite groups and Philistines. They always let some stay and employed them to do the hard labor, to draw water and chop wood. The Torah says explicitly that failure to rid the country of the Canaanites and Philistines will result in their presence becoming "thorns in the side." This is where the old expression comes from, and "stickers in your eyes." I remember during the second intifada a description of a woman in downtown Jerusalem, hit by a shower of nails in an explosion that embedded themselves in her face. Her face looked like a pin-cushion, only those were not pins but nails.

What remains disheartening is the inability of official Israel to shed the wrong-headed clichés of the past about reaching a peace agreement with these people. Rami Levy in response to the pressure group said the markets are proof, or words to that effect, of the possibility of peaceful co-existence between the peoples, and of course he would say that.

But in this I hear the voice of, at best, the adolescent idealist and the mistaken belief, proven wrong, that good will on Israel's part will work to change the hearts and minds of the other side. Once they get to know us, they will stop hating us.

Well, it has been 22 years and counting since the delirious Oslo Handshake on the White House Lawn, and judging by the Palestinian Authority's media, dominated by those, you know, "moderate" Fatah Palestinian "patriots," there has been no change in this people's desire to make us bleed. PMW keeps track of their media that is full of blood-thirsty opinions and songs and celebrations of the Jew-killers.

Fatah continues to broadcast in the official PA media its claim that all of Israel is really Balestine and the property of Balestinians that was stolen by al-Yahud.

And I continue to await the day official Israel responds to this way of thinking as it should, which is to declare in public before the whole world that Abbas and Company's claim that there were no Jewish Temples on Haram a Sharif shows they are simply out of their minds and people with whom Israel will not deal.

Moreover (why I wrote my book) Israel has to answer the insane claim that these Arabs, these Muslims mostly, are Ancient Palestinians. They are delusional. It is the biggest lie of all and it is simply wrong for Jewish people to look the other as they have for decades now. Israel has go on record big time denying the existence of such a fictitious people with any territorial rights to Palestine as it appeared on maps in 1919 when the Paris Peace Conference created the League of Nations which issued a mandate to create a Palestine that did not exist at that moment for the Jewish people because it is their historic homeland. With not a word at the time about any Arabs calling it their historic homeland; not a word about any "Palestinians," not when the word as we use it today simply did not exist.

* * (Musical Interlude) * *

There was an interesting coincidence last Thursday. During the webcast, I opined that we are not hearing any more from the White House about the urgency of making peace, because the Muslim agent in the Oval Office never really gave a hoot about these Arabs. None of their backers ever did. They are just pawns and the creation of Jew-haters for whom the State of Israel's existence enrages them.

Obama the Muslim looks upon Israel as ardent Muslims do: as an offense against the One True Faith. Jews are mandated in the Koran to be "oppressed and humiliated" which makes of their Zionism a rebellion against the word of Allah and his greatest messenger Muhammad the head-chopper.

So it was a coincidence to learn today that almost at the same time that I was doing the webcast, a spokesman for Emir Barack Hussein ibn Barack Hussein, one of his closest Jew-boy advisers Robert Malley, National Security Council Coordinator for the Middle East, spoke to the press and said, “The prospect of a two-state solution is not in the cards for the time that’s remaining.”

Yes. The crucifixion of the Palestinians and its remedy has been abandoned.

By contrast, U.S. Ambassador to Israel Dan Shapiro in Washington for the prime minister’s visit tomorrow also said, “We’ve been doing a lot of work internally aimed at maintaining the viability of the two-state solution” -- though for the life of me I cannot imagine what he has mind by “hard work.” That is the last thing diplomats like him engage him. “Hard work,” he said, to “maintain the viability of the two-state solution.”

“Viability”? He’s gotta be kidding. That word refers to potential for life and growth, when the two-state solution is a corpse that never had a chance.

In any case, this news item tracks with my reading of the Evil One, Barack Obama. He got what he wanted in the Iran deal. Giving the Iranians a king’s ransom to use to kill Jews retail and an atomic bomb in the future to destroy Israel wholesale, G-d forbid, one way or the other, he can now drop the pretense that he cares about the Ancient Ones, whose existence itself is a pretext for the same cosmic hatred of Jews.

A top story here this morning was how Netanyahu will handle his meeting tomorrow with the Evil One, especially in light of his appointment last week, as a public diplomacy coordinator or something, of the acerbic Ran Baratz who in public has described Obama’s actions as “modern antisemitism” and said of John Kerry that he has the mind of a 12 year-old, which sounds right to me.

Like Obama, like Hillary, Kerry is another empty shell, a chronic liar, all ambition, no talent, no wisdom. Baratz is right to see in Kerry a 12 year-old. One anonymous source said Kerry remains nonetheless “particularly worried about the expansion of settlements and creeping annexation” – and never mind last week’s information that Bibi has built less than his predecessors, which makes of the accusation by this grandson of Jewish apostates either out of touch or delusional.

When word got out about Baratz’s opinions, Bibi had to respond. One report had him saying that the appointment is now on hold and will be reviewed after he returns from Washington, or words to that effect; then it was put out that he never said that.

I don’t envy him, he who tomorrow will have to sit once again face to face with this chronic liar and antiJew with whom Bibi and all of us have to put with for another 14 months. Who knows what further mischief for Israel this soulmate of Louis Farrakhan is cooking up?

For sure, the news after their meeting will contain information about future arms deals for Israel because it has the right to defend itself. What does Obama care anyway? It is not his money. The U.S. has been spending with nothing in the bank for years now and especially under Obama’s time. What? Trebling the national debt?

Yes, I don’t envy Bibi having to sit face to face with this s.o.b. after his Iran deal. In a different time and place, outside the framework of official positions, as just two ordinary men, one Muslim and one Jew, if I were Bibi, I’d spit in his face and see what happens.

* * (Musical Interlude) * *

Yes, the proper response to Obama's handing over 150 billion dollars to Iran and giving Iran permission to build an atomic bomb deserves to be responded to with toxic, acidic contempt.

What is so unbelievable besides his obsession with Israel is his twin-hatred of the United States, this president, that he exercises by kowtowing to Iran, our No. 1 enemy, just as he bowed so obsequiously before the savage king of Saudi Arabia three months into his first term. Iran is a nation that simultaneously holds official rallies to chant "Death to Israel!" and "Death to America!" and to burn and tear up both national flags. Like young John Kerry who thought the Viet Cong were his country's victims, so the president of the United States rewards Iran with these prizes. Unbelievable. And not only him and Kerry but the Democrats in Congress who supported them in this deal.

Four days ago was the 36th anniversary of the overrunning of the U.S. Embassy -- an act of war -- in Teheran which every year is a day of celebration there with more hysterical chanting of "Mar barg Amrika!" in Farsi, "Death to America."

Last week. El Supremo in Teheran Ayatollah Ali Khamenei was quoted explaining that "Death to America" does not really mean that. It is not death to the country but death to U.S. policies and its patronizing of other people and its arrogance."

Yes, the late Ayatollah Khomeini's nickname for the U.S. was "World Arrogance." And what's interesting is that America's greatest offense in this framework is not its evil deeds, whatever they are, but its bearing, its arrogance, its preening superiority; it's treating of others as inferiors and making them feel inferior.

This is reminiscent of what Charles De Gaulle said when he stabbed Israel in the back and switched sides in the Arab war against Israel after the Six-Day War. He said Israel was people "assure et dominant," self-assured and domineering, and notice too how De Gaulle had nothing concrete to accuse Israel of, any crime or sin. What De Gaulle and Khomeini object to is the Jews who are proud and therefore snobbish in their attitude to others. You know, the Chosen People, cliquish and clannish. And you can just hear beneath the surface the envy and the rage at Israel for being as successful as it is.

For Iran, whose shahs sat on the Peacock Throne, parading and preening may be that nation's most salient national characteristic. As always with anti-Jew emotions, Israel is accused of the accuser's worst features.

It is Iran whose arrogance makes them see themselves as entitled to displace the U.S. as the most admired and successful and powerful nation on earth. It is not right that America, these pagan infidels, America the Great Satan, backer of Israel the Little Satan, is the cock of the walk in our time. It should be Iran.

With Muslims we deal with people on a very low level of psychological and intellectual sophistication. They lack introspection, lack a conscience and given to Dark Age fantasies of Demon Jews.

Last Thursday in New York, Israel's UN Ambassador Danny Danon wrote a letter of protest to Secretary-General Ban Ki Moon over a letter presented to the current British president of the Security Council by the UN representative of the PLO, Riyad Mansour, in which he accused Israel of harvesting the eyes and organs of those our forces have had to kill since October 1. He said that the bodies returned are missing eyes and other organs, implying that Israel is harvesting these body parts for sale on the black market.

I am reminded of a Syrian film, I think, about ten years ago, in which actors acted out Israel surgeons removing the eyes of Palestinian boys for sale on that market.

Danny Danon protested that, "This blood libel by the Palestinian representative exposes his antisemitism and his true colors. Antisemitism has no place in the halls of the UN and must be denounced."

Well, he can forget about that. The UN is a lost cause.

Still, what Israel has to do for its own self-respect, sanity and dignity is rebrand in the loudest terms these so-called Palestinians as delusional about Jews as any Nazi. They hallucinate a "Palestinian" people in history that never was and therefore cannot be a partner for peace or for anything.

Israel has to take off the gloves and stop mouthing blather about the Two-State Solution and peace with these Balestinians, because there are no Balestinians and this violence against us has absolutely nothing to with the absence of a state for people about whom there is nothing "Palestinian."

* * (Musical Interlude) * *