Shalom laYehudim, Shalom laBnai Noach, Shalom laGoyim. It is the evening of the 6th day, tes-vav beKhodesh Kislev, Parashas Vayishlach, tav-shin-ayin-vav, the evening of the 5th day, Thursday, 26 November 2015, webcasting from the most fought over piece of dry land on the third planet from the sun.

And if you want to know why, put me on pause. Open a new browser, go to the DPP blog, the latest one, and check out my entry, a link to a video on the Arutz 7 site. It lasts one minute and 40 seconds, watch and then get back to me...

Okay? If you want to know why an Israeli soldier was ambushed yesterday in Judea and had a knife plunged into his neck, and his assailant was shot dead; and why today another would-be Muslim assassin in Samaria jumped out of a taxi to stab a Border Patrol soldier but his mates got the drop on the varmint in time and killed him, consider this video. I think the speaker is an Irishman, judging by his accent. He is ranting about us Jews here and really all Israelis since 1948 and you will have a taste of the out-of-control, murderous hatred of Jews throughout history.

Think of WWII: 60 million people were killed, millions more wounded, maimed and mutilated, whole cities reduced to smoking rubble, and why? Because of hatred like this that is just off the charts. It is not sober, it is not balanced; it is not even thinking. This guy is off the rails in a fantasy life of Jews as wild dog killers, when of course, always in the realm of psychological projection, it is his own demented desire to murder us that he is projecting onto us.

I speculate that this guy is a modern incarnation of a medieval Irish Catholic priest on Good Friday frothing at the mouth about the perfidious Jews as he delivered his required sermon entitled, "On the Perfidy of the Jews."

Actually, there was good news on that score today, a report in JPost citing Tuesday's edition of the Catholic Herald in England in which British bishops have appealed to the Vatican to change the text of a Good Friday prayer as it stands -- for some people -- today. Last month was the 50th anniversary of the Papal Bull Nostra Aetate/In Our Time, according to which the Jews were no longer to be seen as guilty for the crucifixion of one of the 250,000 crucified by the Romans. The Jews at the time were all collectively guilty, according to the Church of, in the vernacular, "killing God" but no longer would living Jews be smeared with inherited guilt for that cosmic crime. Just the Jews at the time were guilty.

And evidently -- the item was not quite clear -- since Nostra Aetate, the prayer on Good Friday, also was changed (except for a minority that rejected it) and now the bishops want to change it even more. That prayer calls for the conversion of the Jews, like Michelle Bachmann a couple of weeks ago, if only, apparently, by a tiny percentage of Catholics and that is what they want to see changed. Well, this is progress.

But like the Emancipation of the Jews in late 18th century and early 19th century Europe promoted by the intellectual elite -- which did not sit well with the masses -- one suspects that there are still too many Catholics and Protestants out there who grit their teeth at the Jews who refuse to convert and worse, continue to crucify the Ancient Palestinians as this activist in this video clip tells us. Jews have been murdering them since Day One of the State of Israel, he thinks.

I found his performance fascinating for its monomania, its one-dimensional view of Jews as evil incarnate, who kill the Ancient Ones apparently with no pangs of conscience, which of course is what the Arabs do to us every day.

Today, another 20-year-old girl soldier was killed today when the bus she was on full of soldiers overturned. Like 40 of them were injured, she the worst pinned beneath the vehicle. And the driver is claiming he was cut off or something by an Arab driver.

I have no idea if that is true, though I can testify to the quality of Arab drivers on our roads, so what he said it is perfectly plausible. Some say the bus driver was going too fast and lost control; also quite possible given the behavior of Israeli drivers, including bus drivers.

But also possible was the absence of malice on the part of an Arab driver. They drive like lunatics all the time. They seem to have no sense of the physics of driving and how one mistake in an object of over a ton of metal containing flammable fuel hurtling forward at maybe 50 miles an hour can be dangerous. They drive like children in the bumper cars at an amusement park. In any case, another dead Jewess.

But sticking to this video of that hysterical anti-Jew, he reminded me as well of Nazi Germany. This man clearly has in his head a view of the Jewish community in the world as a band of sadistic murderers lacking all conscience that allows them to constantly kill Ancient Palestinians.

Of course, he is a classic antiJew who smears us with the worst behaviors of people like himself and the Arabs. Everything about us that he says applies to those who every day try to murder us at random with a knife, with a car...with nincompoops like John Kerry who was just here and not understanding anything. He wanted Israeli gestures to the victims of Zionism as a way of improving the situation. He wants to see building in Area C that Oslo denies them as a way of soothing the savage breast of these conscienceless barbarians engulfed in hatred and their desire to murder any and all Jews.

There was a very interesting piece in the JPost magazine last Friday by one of the translators at the Nuremberg trials after the War. A Henry Kissinger-type, he was a teenager in the 1930s in Germany who fled with his family to the States, and then during the War a few years later served as a translator in the Army in conquered Germany. He was part of the interview of Rudolph Hoess who ran Auschwitz, quoting Hitler saying, "If we do not exterminate the Jewish race, then the Jewish race will annihilate the German people."

I was "happy" to read that as it confirmed what Jeffrey Herf said in his book of a few years ago on anti-Jew propaganda inside Germany during the War. He too said, what I had never seen before, that Hitler really believed that the Holocaust was preemptive. Hitler believed the Jews were out to kill all Germans, take over Germany and then the world. Hitler's fear of Jews enslaved his mind so that he could not think clearly. He was obsessed with Jews and their satanic designs against Germany – but of course he was the one with satanic designs against Jews.

Likewise, this guy in this video whom I found just out of control in his mental life, his inhuman vision of Jews and the evil were are constantly executing je thinks.

We saw in the wake of Paris massacre two weeks ago something like that. There was the Foreign Ministress of Sweden – a country literally committing suicide --blaming the "Israeli-Palestinian conflict" for its role in the horror, with of course the unspoken implication that Israel is the bad guy in that relationship whose badness bears guilt for the horror in Paris.

Joining her as well was a former foreign minister in Iceland, one Jon Hannibalson, who asked people to pray not only for the French victims but the Ancient Palestinians.

Likewise, a former deputy prime minister in England John Prescott wrote in the Daily Mirror this week about Paris and brought up the bad blood in Israel and the “Palestinian” territories.

Likewise a former president of Finland, Marti Ahtisaari Nobel peace prize winner who also brought up Israel and Palestine in his response to Paris.

Jimmy Carter has also done this. Carter wrote not one but two books excoriating Israel for its treatment of the Ancient Ones.

This is why John Kerry and others will never understand the violence here, which has nothing to do with alleged Jewish crimes against the phantom “Palestinian” nation and everything to do with the same hatred of Jews today as we have known as a people over thousands of years.

And this is why Israel, the modern state is forever banging its head against the wall by trying to make nice to the Arabs here in hopes they can be turned into friendly and cooperative neighbors; turn them into, as Hillary Clinton thinks, “peaceful and tolerant Muslims.”

No. The violence here is unlike any other conflict between peoples on the third planet from the sun.

And that was Psalm 121.

Yes, the hatred of Israel is unlike any other hatred in the world. The very idea of Jews at all is known to rattle the mind. And who are the Jews? As Hitler cursed us: we are the people who brought conscience into the world, a knowledge of good and evil and guilty feelings.

The Jews also gave the world Sigmund Freud’s observation that without guilt, civilization is impossible. And this seems to be central to this massacre in Paris and in effect every one of the tens of thousands, excuse me, scores of thousands of crimes of terror committed by Muslims in my lifetime alone. They have no empathy, no conscience. Guilt runs off them like water off a duck’s back.

Memri.org reported on a sermon in a mosque in Jerusalem last Friday, a week after the Paris massacre, delivered by one Issam Amira who said that the Paris attacks had been planned and carried out by the intelligence agency of a Western country in order to pin the blame on Islam. He prayed to Allah to “deal with America and with European and Russian allies and to kill each and every one of them. How disgusting is the media, which filled the world with arrogance, and with its condemnation of the Paris bombings, even though there is evidence to prove these bombings -- according to the analysis of one politician -- were carried out by the intelligence agency of anti-Islamic Western country. Oh Allah! Who revealed the Koran, who moves the clouds and defeats armies, deal with Americans and their allies and supporters from among the Europeans, the Russians and other heretical infidels. Oh Allah, count them one by one and kill each and every one of them. Do not leave a single one alive!”

Yes, all the Europeans, all Americans, all Russians.

I’m guessing that during the darkest days of WWII, there was not one Western preacher or rabbi who called for the extermination of every human being in Germany and Japan. I doubt the thought ever occurred to anyone. Oh, bomb the bastards into submission but once they submit, to kill every German and every Japanese?

What’s going on here is a man who experiences guilt as a sensation that it simply intolerable and he must rid himself of it.

And I think it is also on display in the behavior of the Islamophile in the Oval Office. That was Ft. Hood. When Baruch Goldstein did what he did, there was a unanimity of opinion in Israel -- minus a statistically insignificant percentage --who recoiled at what he did and supported the Prime Minister’s condemnation from the podium of the Knesset.

Versus Obama who, shamed by Ft. Hood, was incapable of “excommunicating” the Muslim maniac, of attaching any guilt to Islam whatsoever. He denied Islam had anything to do with his satanic outburst.

Likewise, following the head-chopping of American journalists by ISIS. There was Obama chastising Christians for the Crusades, instead of Islam, which again, he said, had nothing to do with those head-chopping horrors. As Muslim Jew-hatred had nothing to do with the massacre of four Jews in the Hyper Cacher grocery store, according to him.

This guy is functionally, de facto if not de jure, a Muslim who cannot handle guilt. I remember his response to Bill O’Reilly’s interview when the IRS scandal broke. Instead of vowing to get to the bottom of the accusations, he just said there was not an ounce of corruption.

And today in his Thanksgiving radio address, he chastised fellow Americans for their lack of charity in wanting to bring in ten thousand more Muslims, in addition to the already 680,000 Muslims Obama has brought into the country and given greed cards to.

I read that in the Washington Examiner yesterday and thought I was going to faint. I had no idea it was that bad. According to the report by the Department of Homeland Security, in the past five years the president issued 680,000 green cards to people coming from 38 Muslim countries.

This guy is, I tell you, the greatest enemy agent in the history of enemy agents presiding over an invasion of his own country. He promised to “fundamentally change” the United States and this is what he had in mind: to make the U.S. home to a significant Muslim population and thereby fundamentally change the country.

In his first inaugural address, he slapped the Jews in the face and in the next sentence spoke of a relationship with Islam, when throughout all of American history there had never been a relationship to Islam, only relations with different countries as political entities, not as religious, Muslim ones.

What I am saying is that in his own subdued way, Obama is as paranoid about the U.S. as that preacher in Jerusalem last week. In that inaugural address, he exposed his view that the U.S. 1) had a relationship to Islam and 2) by implication, it was less than friendly and he wanted that to change.

I am frankly out of patience with the pundits, even the conservative ones in the States, who continue to criticize him for his weak and failed strategy toward ISIS. They criticize him by saying that he is in denial when saying ISIS is contained and his strategy is working.

I have a different view. He knows exactly what he is doing. He is as aware as they of the “failure” of his policy, with the difference being that he is not in denial. He really wants not to defeat ISIS. I say he is not only incapable of dealing with the guilt of Islam, he is incapable of going to war with Islam because he wants Islam to win.

* * (Musical Interlude) * *

Yes, I envy future historians who will be scratching their head over this period in American history and how the opposition, the pundits, and the people let this character Obama do what he has done. He has presided over the invasion of the United States by 680,000 people whose culture is inimical to American culture.

You know, during the great waves of immigration to the U.S. in the 19th and 20th century (among whose teeming masses were my own grandparents) every one of them coming to America as place far better than the countries they left behind. They all wanted to become Americans, not hold onto the culture they were leaving behind.

Versus these Muslims who do not want to become Americans; they want Americans to become Muslims and they are not above using deadly force to achieve this goal.

And Obama is one of them.

America is, or used to be, a wonderful society, if never a perfect one, and I fear too many people are oblivious to what it has become and no less oblivious to the evil in this man.

On Tuesday at the White House, he gave the Medal of Freedom to Barbara Streisand and Steven Spielberg and Yitzhak Perlman, who unfortunately are not the types to refuse the award in order to make the statement that Obama is a villain who is wrecking the U.S. and targeting Israel with an atomic bomb.

Reading this report of this little ceremony at the White House, what came to mind was Purim whose story begins with a great banquet in the king's palace in Shushan attended by the leaders of the Jewish community in exile, during which the king is using utensils pilfered/looted from the Temple in Jerusalem. One proper reading of the megilla, the Scroll of Esther, that tells the tale of a desire for genocide in Persia, is that of a failed Zionist movement. The story of Purim takes place after Cyrus has allowed the Jews to return from exile, only most don't go but prefer to remain in exile and be subject of this pagan despot mocking their defeat and going to a banquet held by him.

Barbra Streisand was an amazing popular singer; Spielberg a true artist in film but as so often is the case, they have no ability to think clearly about politics, these artists and entertainers, and are oblivious to Obama's hostility to Jews and Israel.

Today, though, the Times of Israel site wrote up the uneasiness in American Jewry at how Obama and Co. reacted to last week's murder at the Gush Etzion of Ezra Schwartz, hy'd, from Sharon, Massachusetts. Veteran and centrist JTA journalist Ron Kampeas opined that, "Jewish Americans are justifiably wounded by the distinctions Washington is making between Schwartz's death and others."

Even in the lunatic left Haaretz newspaper, their Allison Kaplan Sommer expressed her displeasure. She and others have been taken aback by the perfunctory announcement of the murder of Schwartz, this young American citizen. The State Department's announcement by spokesman John Kirby was terse and cold. There may even have been a hint of moral equivalence between Ezra and his "Palestinian" murderers, when no such equivalence was implied between the ISIS maniacs in Paris and their victims.

Well, I hope I survive the next 14 months with Obama still in charge, and Americans in general and American Jews in particular still refusing to speak the truth about this man, this traitor. Bringing into the country 680,000 people whose culture is so opposite to America's?

This is the fundamental change he spoke of: the Islamization of America.

This guy is the enemy, and I say that as a Jew, an Israeli and an American.

Last thought: While the release of Jonathan Pollard is good news, the terms of his release only pour salt into the wound of the abysmal abuse by the U.S. government, and I say that as one who has never been a big Pollard fan. I recently went to a lecture in Jerusalem by writer Edwin Black who became part of the Pollard story by doing a controversial interview with him when that was not supposed to happen. Pollard was his own worst enemy in many ways, but that still does not excuse the excessive punishment or the terms of release in which he is being treated as if he still were in prison.

And one can only speculate that the atmosphere surrounding his release has been influenced by the vibes emanating from the Muslim in the Oval Office.

May he not live to execute his worst wishes against us.
