Shalom laYehudim, Shalom laBnai Noach, Shalom laGoyim. It is the evening of the 2nd day, tes-vav beIyyar, Parashas Bekhukosai, tav-shin-ayin-vav, the evening of the 1st day, Sunday, 22 May 2016, webcasting from the homeland of the ever-squabbling Jews.

Well, the musical chairs of this government - they all seem to play this game at some point - continues. On Friday morning, Defense Minister Moshe Bogie Yaalon resigned and at noon held a press conference - and never mind no press conference is ever really a conference. It is just a politician/player speaking to journalists who ask questions. That's no conference.

Anyway, Bogie said, "I found myself in difficult political arguments with the prime minister over values, fighting the racism that has permeated throughout the IDF and damaged it."

The what? The "racism"? Israelis never cease flinging this word at others without ever understanding it. The word used in Hebrew is giz'anoot, which is not a good translation. What likely he had in mind was the defense by the vox populi of Elor Azaria after Bogie called to indict him for murder, then manslaughter.

What made for bad blood was Netanyahu's initial backing for Yaalon, but then he made a U-turn after he heard the outcry of the people. I think that is the chronology, and if so, Yaalon is right to be bitter. And in retrospect he was right to indict, leastwise if it is true, as I recently heard, that Elor shot the prone, would-be murderer 11 minutes after he was dropped, which changes the picture considerably. For sure, the scene of the incident was the usual high tension hubbub with soldiers and police on the scene, an ambulance, and onlookers, and if indeed Elor killed him 11 minutes into this episode, did he have the authority to do that? Were there no senior officers around?

In other words, Bogie was right to initiate an investigation. Bibi backed him at first but then flip-flopped.

On the other hand, Bogie's bitterness as this turn of events is understandable but his response is typical of leftists with their braindead name-calling. He is embittered by the support inside the army for Elor Azaria, it seems, and he fires back with "racism." There is no racism here.

The original sin and sinner in this story, I think, as I said in a previous webcast, was the as yet unnamed soldier who fired the shot that dropped the Arab killer before he could strike again who did not finish him off.

In a word, this episode is, like so many, not so clear cut and one in which everyone seems to have done something wrong.

On Friday night on TV for the post-Jewish Israelis who ignore the fourth commandment, Ehud Barak opined in an interview that the current government coalition led by Netanyahu is "exhibiting signs of fascism. Extremist elements have taken over the State of Israel."

And I find this just intolerable on several levels. It is, first of all, the remark of another poorly educated Israeli who does not know what fascism is; it is just a word they like to throw around, like Yair Golan, his comrade-in-arms, a fellow career soldier in the IDF which was the creation of the post-Jewish Leftists in the commune. That was Golan popping off about early 20th century Germany history without any indication he knew what he was talking out. He referenced "political processes" in Germany at that time and insinuated they exist in Israel and are growing.

And I think it is most significant that one political process in that period that he did not single out was the process of Anti-Semitism and the mass hysteria about Jews and the evil they allegedly commit. Like the Sherlock Holmes story in which the most important clue is what did not happen, the dog that did not bark, Yair Golan on Holocaust Remembrance Day failed to remember the most important political process of all: the ideology of the National Socialists that ignited riots in the streets, vandalism and the murder of Jews.

On Holocaust Remembrance Day, this fool Yair Golan failed to remember the monstrous tidal wave homicidal hatred of Jews that washed over Europe with its years of slaughter. The most important "political process" in Germany in that period was Judenhass/Jew-hatred, big time, which he did not mention. And his silence was indicative of the stunted lives his slice of Israeli society live.

"Bogie" Yaalon spoke in this vein and so did a predecessor in the IDF Ehud Barak as leaders of the elite commando unit, comparable to U.S. Navy SEALs or the British SAS. Ehud Barak echoed Bogie's way of thinking. Bogie flings the accusation of racism in the army and Ehud Barak says this government exhibits signs fascism.

I don't think Israelis like these understand antisemitism, having never confronted it in their in the formative years; and given the poor higher education in Israel, I don't think Barak and Golan understand what a fascist country is really like. I have a sense of it. I spent some months living in Franco's Spain in the early 1960s when he was still very much in control as El Supremo. There is not a smidgen of fascism in the current Israeli government and for Barak and Yaalon and their camp to insinuate that there is simply disgraceful.

This is the kind of sinat kebeinam/gratuitous hatred that destroyed Jewish Jerusalem the second time. This unnecessary, nasty squabbling and name-calling is over the top, untrue, loshon hara/evil speech.

And it does not help that I do not share the worldview of kibbutzniks like Barak and Yaalon. The former was born and raised on one and absorbed the values, if that is the word, of this community of atheists who believed that the Zionist state should be modern and have nothing to do with "the opiate of the masses," as one of their heroes Karl Marx preached about religion. They believed that if they, the Jews in Eretz Yisrael, the halutzim/pioneers, dropped their Jewishness and were nice to the Arabs, no more antisemitism. A New Jew was their goal because the Old Jews and their religion had proven themselves to be failures.

In this community, it is taboo to hate the Arabs in a general way, similar to the way these collectivists also believed that they knew better than G-d who had made the nuclear family, the building blocks of a healthy society. They thought they would improve on the nuclear family, which is so natural, by taking their babies six weeks after birth away from the mother and raising them collectively in a Children's House. Thank G-d that institution gradually disappeared in the 1970s and 80s.

They thought they knew better than G-d in how to raise children and, no less, that by shedding their Jewish beliefs and practices, their Arab neighbors would be happy and become friendly neighbors.

So in the IDF of Bogie and Ehud, it is forbidden to hate the Arabs. The normal reaction of a people constantly, barbarically and brutally murdered by a neighboring people is to hate them and there is nothing wrong with that.

For sure, a great virtue is restraint and never losing control. But I also think there is another factor at work here for such Israelis as Bogie and Ehud and the MSM journalists of the Left here. Hating the Arabs damages the fantasy of someday becoming friends with them. And it also reinforces their own sense of isolation and identity as Jews.

Ehud Barak, remember, once said that if he were an Arab youth, he would be a terrorist too. It is the same internal constellation of feelings and needs that moved Bogie” to lash out at the “racists” in the IDF, and by that I think he intended those who support Elor Azaria for finishing the job when he did.

In our generation, Leftists are also so commonly imprisoned in their own narcissism, they recoil from joining the masses in Israel who think that terrorists should be killed. I mean, what is the scenario for those who think that once that would-be murderer was brought down, the dynamics of ethics play shift gears and now we Jew must save that man’s life and rush him to a hospital at our expense to save him and put him in prison and let him take correspondents courses? What are we? Social workers with these people?

In sum, this latest crumbling of a government coalition has been yet another messy stew of Israeli behavior at its worst.

Well, the headline on Friday morning was that the U.S., that is John Kerry, will attend on June 3rd the French -organized tribunal of some 30 countries who at the end will collectively point their fingers at Israel and declare “Sua culpa. You Jews are as guilty of being the obstacle to peace and oppressor of the authentic landlords of Palestine as you were when you killed Jesus and you have to hand back the land you stole from them in 1967.”

I find this whole business of yet another peace conference to end the violence here just bizarre for its repetitive behavior decade in and decade out.

I mentioned a webcast or two ago that my book records the attempt in January 1969 by the French to convene another peace conference but that never got off the ground. The first meeting, then, between Israel and the Arabs that was allowed to be called a peace conference took place in Geneva after the Yom Kippur War, in December 1973. It was just a one-day affair of speeches by the representatives of the US and the UN, I think, but for sure the foreign ministers of the Egypt, Israel and Jordan. There was an empty chair at the table because Syria boycotted. And that was it. No real conference either, in which people conferred and discussed and altered positions. Another peace conference that was no conference either.

Then there was the Madrid Peace Conference of 1991 brought on by the first intifada. The most important was the Oslo Abomination Accords signed on the White House lawn in 1993, almost a quarter-century ago.

And then over the next seven years when the allegedly messianic age of peace had kicked in, over two hundred people in Israel were murdered in terror strikes, and that was just the warm-up.

In 2000, the Oslo Abomination really came apart after the Camp David talks exposed the peace process from Day One as a fraud. So Intifada No. 2 broke out a few months later, and that led to years of horror in our streets, almost two thousand Jews murdered in terror atrocities and thousands more wounded.

And here we are, a decade after Intifada 2 subsided, with another international peace conference for dozens of countries all determined to make peace between Arabs and Jew by forcing the Jews to hand back the spoils of war they took in self-defense. And if they don't, they will be branded, if no longer Christ-killers, that's out of fashion, then "racist fascist imperialist colonists" of our another nation's stolen ancient homeland.

And what struck yours truly about this news item on Friday about the Paris conference was that Kerry will attend and the flavor of ritual here, indeed, almost a religious ritual. There seems to be a need among the goyim, the nations, to gang up on us and point their fingers of guilt at us for some monstrous crime we are believed to have committed.

I mean, here the news was that Kerry in Brussels last Thursday at a NATO meeting "welcomed" the French initiative and told his interviewer that his counterpart French Foreign Minister Jean-Marc Ayrault was on the right track. He said he "will work with the French. I will work with the Egyptians." He had just come from Cairo earlier in the week. "I will work with the Arab community in a good faith effort to see if we can find a way to help the parties see their way to come back to the table."

And never mind his last attempt at peace flopped two years ago. Most annoying here are the three promises to work with this country and work with that country when the last thing these diplomats ever do is work. All they do is fly around and talk to each other and stay at the best hotels and eat at the best restaurants.

Has Kerry nothing better to do? Likewise the French, Francois Hollande and his Foreign Secretary Manuel Walls; have they nothing better to do? What do they think they will accomplish by holding a peace conference about the fate of Israel without Israel being present? Have they learned nothing since World War II about treating the Jewish people with respect? This is insulting and obnoxious and presumptuous that they know better than we do how to manage our relations with our violent, savage, barbaric, antisemitic neighbors. The whole thing, this peace conference, is premised on a whopping lie. That the strife here is between "Israelis" and "Palestinians" when it is Muslims aggressing against Jews whose independence their religion of Islam cannot tolerate. It has nothing to do with a fantasy national identity. What burns in their savage breasts and drives them on is Islam.

When interviewed in Brussels, Kerry said, "What we are seeking to do is to help encourage the parties to be able to see a way forward so that they can understand that peace is a possibility."

And I ask, "When have the Arabs ever voiced the desire that they want peace? What they want is real estate that we Jews developed with our own blood, tears, sweat and Jewish money. In a way, what the Arabs are doing today is exactly what the Barbary Pirates did for a thousand years. They attacked Christians at sea, captured them, kept their ships and cargoes and enslaved the passengers and crewmen, which attacks could be prevented only by paying “tribute.”

For example, in 1786, in a hotel room in Mayfair, London, then as now a diplomatic neighborhood, Sheik Abdurrahman, sent by the pasha of Tripoli Yusuf Karamanli, demanded 100,000 dollars from the two American diplomats in the room with him, the ambassadors to London and Paris respectively, the portly John Adams and red-headed, and freckled, tall and thin Thomas Jefferson who asked him on what grounds Tripoli was demanding this money from the U.S? The sheik said it was the jihad. Here was the Bashaw (sic) of Tripoli -- via his emissary in London with his hand out -- demanding payment, or Americans would be savaged at sea.

And that is, I think, more or less, what Bashaw Mahmoud Abbas here is doing. He has his hand out for Jewish treasure, and if he doesn't get it, the option is another round of satanic violence, a third intifada. It is the same age-old challenge of the highwayman when he stops you and says, “Your money or your life.”

And that is who Ishmael became after his expulsion from the civilized community of his father and his hundreds of followers. Rashi said Ishmael became a highwayman, an armed robber.

That is who these Balestinians are.

* * (Musical Interlude) * *

Yes, there is something sick about the endless attempts by goyim to convene peace conferences attended by nations outside our fight for survival. Who are these 30-some nations who have agreed to fly to Paris and stay at the best hotels and enjoy the best restaurants to discuss what we Jews do here, even though there is nothing to discuss? They all agree already with one another who the bad guy is in Balestine.

It has the flavor of something surreal as well for its woefully misconceived perception of the situation here mentioned before the music. As if the conflict is between victimized Balestinians and their victimizers, we Jews, when the hatred on display from the Arabs is much, much older than 1967, older than 1947, older than 1917. Memri.org posted on Friday an excerpt from a recent Friday sermon, on May 6th, delivered in the Umayyad Mosque in Damascus, and understand what that means. This mosque is no ordinary neighborhood, parish-type mosque but the No. 1 equivalent in the city of, say, the legendary cathedral Notre Dame de Paris in France. It is the mosque commemorating the first Arab empire, the Umayyad Empire, whose caliphs built this place over the previous Byzantine Basilica of John the Baptist where local legend claims his severed head is buried.

As the conquering Muslims in Jerusalem built the Dome of the Rock where the Jewish Temples had stood, so in Damascus the Muslims, when they overran that city four years earlier, built this huge mosque to replace the basilica, so that the Muslim priest delivering this sermon on May 6 was no outlier in Islam, no “radical extremist” but had his feet firmly planted in Sunni Islamic doctrine when he preached “Treachery is one of the characteristics of the Jews. According to the Protocols of the Elders of Zion, the Jews are trying to control the global news agencies in order to control global ideology. Their goal is to uproot Islam and bring ruin on its followers.”

Imagine, say, Cardinal Timothy Dolan, of St. Patrick’s Cathedral in the heart of Manhattan at Rockefeller Center, preaching such a sermon one Sunday, and one gets an inkling into just how far behind spiritually, culturally, civilizationally these Arab Muslims are.

These are the people John Kerry and Francois Hollande and Emanuel Walls want Israel to hand over the high ground to that Israel captured from the Arabs in 1967.

This is who the enemy is, and the idea of Israel retreating and handing Judea and Samaria over to them is not of this world. Rather, I think it is another instance of goyim relating to Jews in an unbelievably inhuman way. It is simply inhuman to expect us to do what no human beings in our situation would do.

We evacuated the Gaza rectangle, and many fools thought this would bring smiles to Arabs living there but what we got were years of rockets fired into our homes and streets. Since the retreat 10 years ago and counting, we have had three major military operations costing a king’s ransom, in addition to the scores of dead Israeli soldiers, and now even our alleged friends, Kerry, Hollande, Walls and company, want to see us evacuate Judea and Samaria too. We are not allowed by them to learn from our experience.

This is inhuman. It is the latest variation in abusing the Jewish people. These goyim should be ashamed of themselves for thinking this way. But in all fairness to them, they are egged on antiJew Jews in Israel and the U.S.

I imagine you all saw the story today of George Soros’s front organization Ploughshares handing over millions to J Street and NPR, staffed by too many antiJew Jews, to sell Obama’s demonic Give the Iranians an Atomic Bomb Policy.

We are under attack from a lot of directions.

* * (Musical Interlude) * *

Yes, our neighbors, these Arabs, are backed in their highway robbery by goyim in Europe and the US and served by antiJew Jews, all of whom want Israel to hand over land to a people that produced a recent festival in honor of Palestinian Prisoner Day during which a little girl participant was filmed showing off her lessons when she said, “Like all the children of Palestine, I do not like the occupation. I am scared of the Jews when they come to our village. They kill worshippers at Al-Aqsa Mosque. They kill our people and imprison small children. It is my right to live in peace like all children in the world.”

These are the people John Kerry wants to reward with territory that is rightfully Jewish land.

Kerry and Hollande and all the antiJew diplomats who will show up at that shindig, that antiJew farce of a peace conference in Paris should all be ashamed of themselves.
