Shalom laYehudim, Shalom laBnai Noach, Shalom laGoyim. It is the evening of the 4th day, kaf-zion beMenachem Av, Parashas Re'eh, tav-shin-ayin-vav, the evening of the 3rd day, Tuesday, 30 August 2016, webcasting from, according to the Nations United Against Israel, the "occupied Palestinian territory."

It drives post-Jewish Israelis crazy that the UN is obsessed with us. But me? It only makes me smile.

For sure, if and when the UN does something truly injurious to Israel, I will not like that, but so long as that is not the case, I revel in the enslavement of these goyim in their hatred of Israel which reflects envy and bitter anger. It is the "respect" mankind pays to the truth of Jewishness.

I mean, we are hardly the only people who think we are exceptional. The island Japanese think everyone outside Japan is a barbarian. The French think theirs is the most beautiful language, theirs the most beautiful fashions, theirs the most delectable cuisine. I disagree on all three counts.

Russians think theirs is the most physically beautiful country in the world. And Muslims believe theirs is the One True Faith that superseded Jewishness and Christianity.

But nobody grinds his teeth and snarls over them like they do over us.

Last night in the United Nations -- this utterly corrupt scam of no-talent bureaucrats who produce nothing -- their Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process came before the Security Council and spit words of anger at Israel.

But let's start with his title, first of all: "Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process." There are two big lies right there. First of all, there is no peace process and never was. The Middle East is a vast sea of sand that shifts and moves at the mercy of the winds of history and it has never known peace. Only an ahistorical, antiJew ignoramus like Little Tommy Friedman could have waxed sappy with joy five years ago at what he called "The Arab Spring." If he had any feel for history, he would know that such upheavals are common, they are routine. These kinds of rebellions against regimes are known in Araby in every generation. No regime is experienced as legitimate. All leaders are corrupt tyrants.

Some thirty-three years ago, I went to Algeria looking for knowledge of the Barbary Pirates and felt oddly at home at first. Like in Israel, I saw Arabs in the city of Algiers and among them soldiers in uniform slinging assault rifles. It is a Mediterranean climate. Only at a certain point, I understood that these soldiers in the streets, like you see in Israel, were not there to defend Algerians from some external enemy intent on murdering them. No, these armed soldiers in combat boots were there to defend the regime from the people.

In Egypt and Yemen, I've passed through security road blocks, like the ones surrounding Sanaa, the capital in Yemen, checking cars wanting to enter the city, for weapons. In the countryside, everybody has a weapon, but they were not allowed to bring them into the capital.

I'd bet that not one of our enlightened, progressive Machsom Watch/Women in Black who hover our soldiers at checkpoints to make sure they do nothing bad to the "victims of Zionism" know that all over the Middle East there are checkpoints manned by the governments on guard against terrorist enemies of the regime.

So last evening at the UN, there was this UN bureaucrat Nickolay Mladenov whose title is Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process with its lies. I mean, if the intention is the "peace process" between Israel and the so-called Palestinians, there never has been a peace process because Islam will not allow it.

And if this title implies that the "Middle East Peace Process" between Israel and the so-called "Palestinians" is successful, it will bring peace to the entire Middle East. This is a sub rosa antisemitic thought. Jimmy Carter's first book was chapter after chapter of interviews with Arab dictators all claiming all the problems in the Middle East are the result of the enduring injustice to the age-old Balestinians. Get the Jews to do right by them, and peace all over the Middle East will reign.

So yesterday at the UN, before the Security Council, their Special Coordinator – third lie...what exactly does he coordinate? Surely not the players in the Middle East...this coordinator, this clown plays no role in a peace process except to coordinate the time he would appear before the Security Council as he did yesterday to spit poison at Israel for continuing to build homes for Jewish families on barren land, dispossessing no non-Jew. Mladenov complained that Israel's action goes against the Quartet's recommendations which were published last July.

It sounds as if he believes that Israel is under some obligation to obey the recommendations of the Quartet. And what is the Quartet? A quartet of four more non-productive gasbag diplomats representing the United Nations, the US., Russia, and the EU bureaucrats in Brussels.

Notice Mladenov is the Special UN Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process but he is not the only UN bureaucrat being a paid comfortable salary. There is this other U.N. representative to the Quartet, which is another position, another employee on the U.N. payroll.

Mladenov comes off as if Israel has some obligation to obey the desires of the EU foreign affairs czarina, this forty-something, former member of the Young Communist League in Italy, Dr. Mogherini, with her PhD in Political Science. She knows best what's good for Israel and the region. She knows better than all the Israelis who keep voting for Benyamin ben Bentzion to lead them. And that Israel is going against the Quartet's recommendations, well, that bothers Nickolay Mladenov greatly.

He excoriated Israel for planning to build 1,700 more homes for Jewish families in long establish Jewish neighborhoods, displacing no ancient Balestinians, which he says "will not bring the parties closer to a negotiated settlement and does not uphold the two-state solution, creating hope for the Palestinian people or bring security to Israelis."

Notice the use of the word "security," never "peace." This is the unbalanced equation: the Balestinians pine for a Balestinian state, have been hoping for one since the dawn of creation, vs. the Israelis who want "security," which in his mind can only come when they hand back the high ground they stole from the "Palestinians" in 1967 and retreat to being 9 miles wide again. This is the right way, he thinks, to make Israelis feel secure.

Two months ago, the Quartet met and drafted their recommendations in order to re-ignite the peace process, as the cliché goes, that stalled two years ago, but here was Nickolay Mladenov complaining that the Jews since July 1st have advanced plans for 1,000 homes for their nefarious people in eastern Jerusalem alone and 735 more in the "West Bank."

Every time someone says West Bank, you are listening to antisemitism.

The Prime Minister's Office here shot back with a statement saying Mladenov "distorted history and international law by saying 'all settlements are illegal in international law and this distances peace.' Jews have lived in Jerusalem, Judea and Samaria for thousands of years and their presence there is not an obstacle to peace. The obstacle to peace is the attempt to incessantly deny the relationship of Jews to their historical land and the stubborn refusal to acknowledge that Jews are not foreigners there. The claim that construction in Jerusalem is illegal is as absurd as the claim that American construction in Washington or French construction in Paris would be illegal. The Palestinian demand for ethnic cleansing of Jews in its future state is horrifying and the UN should be condemning it instead of adopting it.”

This is nice, but not enough. Israel has to eventually slay the dragon of the phantom of “Palestinians” with rights to a state and annex publically Judea and Samaria. Until then, Israel will be the target of a delusional, ahistorical, antiJew like this nobody of a Special Coordinator for a phantom Middle East peace process.

So, last evening in his J'accuse' against in New York before the Security Council, Nickolay Mladenov tongue-lashed Israel not only for building homes for Jewish families but knocking down the dwellings of Arabs lacking all the usual building permits known in civilized communities around the world. In particular, he brought up the case of the Arabs squatting next to the Jewish community at Sussiya with its wonderful, restored, ancient synagogue, an impressive archaeological site.

In fact, although portrayed by him as an “Arab herding village,” whatever that is, it is a shantytown that photographs of the area prove was thrown up quite recently.

Yet here was the UN last evening, all the lights burning, running up a whopping electricity bill with Con Ed, with all the representatives and staffers at this session of the Council focused on these squatters as if it were the most pressing security problem in the world that the Security Council just had to deal with.

Again, yours truly can only smile at the homage paid by all these goy antiJews by listening to a fellow, UN, well-paid flunky complain about the Jews’ alleged desire to drive these Ancient Palestinians from their ancient homestead, to knock down this shantytown.

It is all, is it not, some kind of psychodrama, in the literal sense, a drama rooted in the psyche, the soul, the souls of these representatives of Planet Earth, acting out their feelings toward the return of Jews to their ancient Promised Land after 18 centuries of exile and never forgetting it.

Is there anything in the history of peoples analogous to this, comparable to Jewish history? Once leafing through Edward Gibbon’s Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, at one point he lists the names of peoples that Rome overran and extinguished as a distinct community or country, and it was one after another of peoples I had never heard of. And I’m not talking about Hittites or Etruscans, Druids or Celts. People I had never heard of that disappeared. They were defeated. Their homeland was overrun and kept by their Roman conquerors. These people never returned, never were heard of again.

Jewish history is reminiscent of one of the classics of Japanese culture called the 47 Ronin, a ronin being a samurai, whose profession is bodyguard to lords of the manor, so to speak, whose master was killed and became a vagabond sword for hire.

Well, in a clash between clans, the master is slain and his 47 Ronin are routed and dispersed all over the place in their shame and despair. Many fall into alcoholism and depression.

Only, it was all a ruse. They were all just making their victors think that they no longer posed a threat. And then, one night, many years later, they all returned to avenge and kill their enemies.

So it has been for the Jewish who lost their country, were dispersed and abused in every host country, suffering for 18 centuries but never forgetting their ancient homeland by promising to return and they have, which homeland remained, in the interim, the whole time (mostly), a desolate landscape that broadcast the message to visitors that in the Holy Land there once lived a people that was punished by losing their land, and ever since, no other people had lived in it. Every ruler for 18 centuries represented a foreign power. Every ruler was a colonial administrator. No nation took the place of the Jews and called it their national homeland.

Until the second half of the 20th century, that is. The problem with antiJew nobodies like this Nickolay Mladenov, with the UN as a whole, and its 193 member states, is their view of Israel seen through the eyes of these delusional, homicidal Muslims. Overwhelmingly, the community of international diplomats like this fellow have swallowed whole like a communion wafer the story of the theft of Palestine from the "Palestinians" by the malevolent Jews who refuse to hand back what they stole and stop oppressing and humiliating the legitimate owners of this country.

Unfortunately, Israel never challenges this wacky distortion of history that demonizes the Jews, as Christianity, Islam, Marxism and National Socialism demonized the Jews with accusations of evil.

I hope you all got to see that Memri.org video of that out-of-control Jordanian Arab member of the Muslim Brotherhood. His hysterics are representative of hundreds of millions of illiterate Muslim Arabs who see in murdering Jews an act of holiness. Like slaying the dragon, the Muslim kills an agent of the Devil, for which is rewarded by an express trip to Paradise which is where all the forbidden pleasures of this world turn into a drunken, 24-7 garden of sensual delight, sex and drugs for all eternity.

Now, the UN Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process who surely has never coordinated anything that brings peace closer, may not carry on before the Security Council like that hysterical Jordanian, but he and they do share an inner life about Jews as the principle evil-doers here in the clash between them and their victims, the innocent Ancient Palestinians.

I have not seen the full transcript of his presentation but I'd say it is a fair bet that in his review of events here over the last two months, there is not one sentence, not one word, referring to the almost daily attempts to murder Jews praised by none other than Mahmoud Abbas, leader of the allegedly moderate, peace-loving Balestinians who want nothing but their purloined homeland back and an end to Israeli's oppression and humiliation.

This is the face of Jew-hatred in the 21st century, the face of resisting the miraculous return of the Jewish people to their restored homeland that they made green again after 18 centuries of never forgetting where home was.

Well, in the good news department, we learned yesterday that Brussels Airlines will not in the future boycott products produced by Jews in Judea and Samaria, in this particular case in the Barkan Industrial Zone where the Achva company produces its halvah.

You remember it was, we learned later, an angry Arab on a Brussels flight from Tel-Aviv who complained that the little candy bar he was served was made in occupied territory.

Brussels Airlines initially kowtowed and removed the item and swore off ever doing something like that again.

But then the Israeli government agents, its foreign office, its embassy and consuls in Belgium made known there would be consequences to this boycott of Israeli companies who in fact are acting out the imaginary peace that world antiJewry claims it wants to create. Unfortunately, the MSM did not note that the name of the company, Achva, means "brotherhood" and the operation of the business is that concept come to life. Jews and Arabs working shoulder to shoulder under the same roof in peace and equality, who are paid the same wages and treated the same way; making a living.

Among our diplomats in Brussels who made known their displeasure with this situation and surely used this argument, but I imagine the most persuasive tactic was that exercised by Minister of Tourism Yariv Levin threatening Brussels Airlines with a counter-boycott of its planes by shutting them out of Israel, which surely is a profitable route for them, otherwise they would not be flying it.

And so Brussels Airlines has now reversed course and said the origin of products they purchase is not their concern.

In theory, one should not do business with dictatorial and unjust regimes. But if so, we all should dump in the garbage can all our electronic devices and other instruments made in Red China, whose oppression of the Tibetans and their religion is never dealt with as our relationship to the Ancient Ones is.

The hypocrisy of the obsessed antiJews behind the BDS movement in this regard is of course unseen by them. And the bureaucrats at the UN who last evening listened to their Special Coordinator read his bill of indictment against the world's only Jewish state will say nothing of the situation in Tibet and other countries.

Speaking of which, the UN, the excellent Judith Bergman writing for Gatestone reported, likewise veteran Claudia Rosset on PJ Media - she used to be with the Wall Street Journal - both wrote up the looming threat by the Muslim secret agent in the Oval Office to turn over Internet administration to the UN, take it away from his own country, the United States of America, and present it to the UN, where Muslims states are the most powerful bloc.

Today, JPost's Herb Keinon opined that Obama will not do anything in the UN Security Council against Israel before he leaves office as feared, and I say because he doesn't have to. He has already had his greatest foreign policy transformation: giving 150 billion dollars to the Iranians who have gone to war against America for decades and never been responded to properly. He has licensed them to build atomic weapons to menace Israel. And if nothing happens between now and Oct. 14th, his plan for transferring power over the Internet to the UN will be perhaps his greatest victory over the Jews, Islam's Public Enemy No. 1. If the UN takes control, they could have the power, I suppose, to suspend Internet service to Israel and effectively destroy the country, G-d forbid. Imagine one day waking up and there are no communications on the Internet to the outside world. Everything is cut off. No business can be conducted. No bank transfers, no nothing.

Caroline Glick in JPost this week also wrote up this looming menace.

The Security Council for Obama with its resolutions is nothing compared to showering Iran with billions and the right to build nuclear bombs and now empowering the UN to isolate the Jews from the world until we drive a half-million of our own "racist fascist imperialist" brothers and sisters from their ill-gotten real estate.

Giving power over the Internet to the antiJews in the UN could be Obama's s greatest transformation of the US, Israel and the world yet.
