Shalom laYehudim, Shalom laBnai Noach, Shalom laGoyim. It is the evening of the 6th day, yud-tes beTishrei Parasha Khol Hamoed Succot, tav-shin-ayin-zion, the evening of the 5th day, Thursday, 20 October 2016, webcasting from the hills of Judea where humanity aches to create the Hitlerian dream of a land that is Judenrein, Jew-free, his idea of Utopia, a world without Jews.

And “A World Without Jews” is the name of a booklet written in the middle of the 19th century in Germany by Karl Marx. No, he did not call for the gassing and physical extermination of Jews but for a messianic, future-oriented world, for a better world, which it would become when there were no more Jews because they had disappeared/faded into history. He linked capitalism -- institutionalized greed, exploitation and theft -- to warmongering, with the Jews running the show. Jew-bankers like the Rothschilds were in charge. They loved wars because that is when they made the most money. Marx saw in capitalism an outgrowth of feudalism and a transitory step toward the next stage of social development, which would be socialism. Charles Darwin was a contemporary. Then, after socialism, the final utopia of communism would come. That is why the USSR was the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics working toward the Elysian Fields of a world embracing communist universe.

And of course in their world of tomorrow, there would be no religion. In public schools in the Soviet Union, the children were taught atheism. That was as the official “religion” in religion classes in the public schools, just as in Muslim states the official religion is Islam. The children were taught that religion is the “opiate of the masses” who are kept content to live lives exploited by the capitalist bankers, and of course, the worst religion of all was the Judaism that gave birth to Christianity and Islam because they constitute so much of humanity.

And so in his booklet A World Without Jews, Karl Marx, the visionary, foresaw a future when capitalism was no more, and since the Jews ran capitalism, and they did not love the G-d of Israel as they claimed but the God of Mammon/money, they would be, so to speak, in the future, out of work and thus disappear from history.

Today, Marxism exists only in the musty, dark corners of university departments of sociology and political science but not to worry, something has taken its place. It is called Palestinian Nationalism, which wages daily war against the racist, fascist, Zionist state that daily abuses, exploits, humiliates and otherwise oppresses the victims of their ideology, the poor, poor Ancient Palestinians.

And we know this from the daily aggression against Israel waged not only violently but non-violently in the halls of legislatures and international organizations.

A major story in Israel this past week was the anti-Jew venom spit by an Israeli Jew and an American Jewess in the UN Security Council session last Wednesday specifically convened to bash Israel's settlements. Its purpose was to bash Israel's settlement activity that is, in Council members' minds, illegal in international law, which is a major anti-Jew lie in this generation. The formal title of the session was "Settlements as a barrier to peace and to the two-state solution."

We saw last week about how absolutely bonkers many goyim are when it comes to the Jews these days in the UNESCO decision by two dozen states, which was on a par with Holocaust Denial. In a way, this resolution was even more monumental. The Holocaust Period, the period of the Third Reich, lasted a dozen years, during which Holocaust Deniers deny the deliberate murder of six million Jews, all ages, both sexes. They say it did not happen, while UNESCO's decision deletes roughly 3,000 years of Jewish life in Jerusalem.

In both cases, there is a denial of history, which results in a re-writing of history, and the same can be said for Palestinian Nationalism, the invention of a nation claiming a history when there is no evidence of that.

And what complicates the current manifestation of denying Jewish history are some of its practitioners who are themselves Jews; this is so strange. Some of the greatest enemies of Jews today are Jews themselves. Jew-haters today, though, deny their Jew-hatred. That is a new feature of antisemitism. Indeed, they say antisemitism is a no-no and claim that they themselves can't be antisemitic because they too are Jews, and really love the Jewish state. What they object is the behavior of Israel toward the Ancient Palestinian people whose land they stole and continue to squat on and occupy and to deny this ancient people its rights to its ancient homeland.

Such antiJew Jews in their ignorance think that antisemitism refers only to Nazi-style thought and behavior. What they refuse to see and understand is that Jew-hatred is a living thing that morphs and mutates from generation to generation, culture to culture and year to year. This view of Israel as an “occupier of the West Bank” is antisemitic because it is a lie. And it is lying that is at the root of all Jew-hatred down the corridors of time. In every generation, goyim believe in myths about the Jews and their evil plans and behaviors that never ever have a smidgen of truth to them.

And as we know from history, when some Jews apostatized and became Christians or Muslims, they led the charge of hatred against the people they were born into.

We know from Spain of the Inquisition of Jewish converts who became the Jews’ worst persecutors. It is believed that the family of Torquemada who led the unified Inquisition had been Jews. The famous Disputation in Barcelona in 1263 was between the Ramban, Rabbi Moshe ben Nachman, and a Jewish apostate who called himself Paul Christian/Pablo Cristiani. He became a priest and in the disputation (debate) argued that the Talmud – he had studied some of it -- was proof of the divinity of Jesus and therefore the Ramban also had to convert. They argued before King Jaime in open court, and the Ramban made kosher minced meat of him. He was so victorious that he enraged the Church hierarchy. Death threats were issued and he had to flee Spain for this life to Eretz Yisrael.

And then there was in the a century before him the life of the Rambam, Maimonides, who as a 13-year-oldboy ran out of Cordova in Spain for his life, chased by the homicidal Muslim maniacs of the fanatical al-Muwahiddun sect. He ran to Fez in Morocco where he composed his Epistle on Apostasy/Iggeret HaShmad in which he advised Jews how to deal with Muslim barbarians demanding they convert or be put to death.

Eventually, he had flee Fez as well but found asylum in Fustat, the future Cairo, where he received a plea for help from the Jews in Yemen when an apostate Jew had converted to Islam and was leading a dreadful persecution of the community there. This is when the Rambam wrote Epistle to Yemen in which he called Islam a persecutor of the Jewish people worse than Christianity. Here too the enemy, the individual there leading the persecution, was an antiJew Jew.

And so we should not be surprised that last week the Security Council listened raptly to Israeli Hagi El-Ad blame the Israeli government for violence against Balestinians. He is the head of Btselem. By the way, it is a name beneath which lurks medieval Jew-hatred and here’s why. Btselem means “...in the image of.” and is taken from the famous first verses of the Bible when man is created in the image of G-d, with the implication that the Jews are treating the legendary Balestinians as less than human, which tells us that the Jews are inhuman, not quite human, and in their behavior toward the victims of their national movement especially.

What Hagi El-Ad said to the Council, and was thanked by a representative of the United States, of the MBA in the Oval Office (the Muslim Brotherhood Agent), was that “the occupation of Palestine is unjust.”

Three substantive words here, three major antiJew lies: “occupation, Palestine, unjust.” According to international law, there is no occupation. According to international law, the League of Nations Mandate, Judea and Samaria, the terms used by the League and the UN in 1947, are the heart of the historic homeland of the Jewish people, a.k.a. Palestine, that the League was going to create for the Jews to occupy.

The League said nothing of this real estate belonging to a nationality called “The Palestinians.” That would have been impossible since there was no Palestine in existence before the Great War/World War I. The Muslims themselves never recognized such a country. The League Mandate was to create a Palestine that did not exist and explicitly saw in it the homeland of the Jewish people.

So occupation is a lie in this context. The accusation today of “occupation” is that Palestine is being occupied by the wrong people. On the contrary, it is occupied by the proper people, the Jews. He called Israel’s occupation “unjust,” lie No. 3.

And what is fascinating is the prominent participation in the spreading of this lie by this Israeli Jew. He is in the same class as Pablo Cristiani the apostate whom Rambam chewed out and spit out.

* * (Musical Interlude) * *

So in the speech that Hagi El-Ad gave before the UN Security Council, he insisted Israel’s occupation of Palestine was unjust. He said it is almost 50 years now and has to end. He urged the Council to take action: “Ladies and gentlemen, I ask you, what does it mean to live practically 49 years under military rule? Living under military occupation means living under violence, violence directed at Palestinian lives from the cradle to the grave.”

You got that? Israel violently attacks Ancient Palestinian infants in their cradles. See what I mean about Jew-hatred and fantasies of behavior that have no basis in reality?

“Who can take checkpoints for a half-century?” he asked, blissfully ignorant of the truth that in every Arab state there are checkpoints where soldiers are on the lookout for enemies of the regime.

He claimed that Israel constantly enacts laws that are contrary to the UN Human Rights Council.

I read that and my jaw dropped so fast I thought it was going to break. UNHRC is a standard for him as is an impartial judge of Israeli behavior? The Council has condemned Israel more times than all over countries put together? That has Israel as a special agenda item in every monthly session? There is something very defective in the mind such a Jew.

He went on, “Despite the international agreements that these settlements are illegal, the only thing which is growing are the settlements.”

Again, what are these “international agreements” saying that these settlements are illegal that he refers to? As always, these agreements are not named, so listeners have no way of reading them and studying them and seeing how they were produced. It is a claim in the realm of “Jerusalem is not holy to the Jews.” It is another delusion.

He said, “Btselem fights against infringement on human rights. Btselem’s mission is to explain to the Israel how the Palestinians live.”

Btselem, we know, calls itself a human rights organization but this is incorrect; it is insufficient as a name. They see infringements on the human rights of Balestinians only and are blind to the infringements of Jewish human rights at the hands of these very same so-called Balestinians.

And in defining his mission as explaining to Israelis how “Palestinians” live, he assumes they don’t know, which is ludicrous. Israelis do army duty and reserve army duty and they never see anything in Judea and Samaria like the lives of Arabs in Syria and Iraq and Yemen and Libya. They place Israel under a magnifying glass in search of human rights crimes while saying nothing about the lives of Arabs and Yazidis and Kurds and Chaldean Christians, and Copts who get murdered in Egypt. In this way, they exhibit an obsession with Jews that the behavior of the Jews does not warrant.

Hagi El-Ad said, “Israel cannot occupy a population and call itself a democracy.” You know something: with poor devils like him, I am sometimes torn between anger at the manifest content of their antiJew lying and pity for their lousy education and even stupidity. One of the things I like about my fellows Jews is their intelligence and level of education and here is this poor young man who thinks it is impossible for Israel to be democracy and occupy another people.

Really? For a decade after WWII, there was a full-blown occupation of Germany and of Japan. Britain, France, and the US were therefore in his mind not democracies?

And even following the lifting of the initially strict occupation laws, Germany’s capital was occupied for 45 years, with US forces still today based in Germany and Japan. There is absolutely no contradiction between being a democracy for citizens in a victorious, and righteously victorious, state, and the military rule they impose the conquered.

El-Ad concluded by demanding that the UN take action to end the “occupation,” and in perfect sync with antiJew Israelis and Jews like him, not a word came out of his mouth about what would follow Israel’s evacuation of what Hagi El-Ad calls not Judea and Samaria but the “West Bank.”

If he thinks the people who take power after such an Israeli exit would become friendly neighbors, he exposes more of his cosmic ignorance about the totality of life here vs. the matrix of lies and delusions sloshing about in his deranged cranium.

Like him in the news last week as well, was one Anna Baltzer who runs an outfit surely backed by antiJews called, “The US Campaign to End the Israeli Occupation,” clearly a name likewise that is not only an antisemitic lie for using the word occupation but lying about the organization’s true agenda which is not the end of the so-called occupation but the end of Israel itself, G-d forbid. She admitted this in an interview with the Virtual Mosque online in 2009. Last month, she tried and almost succeeded in receiving a respectful hearing before a Congressional committee that was cancelled at the last moment when her real agenda was revealed.

According to Wikipedia, she was born in 1979 in Berkeley -- Heaven help us - and according to journalist Lee Kaplan was raised with no knowledge or practice of Jewishness whatsoever. Her real last name is not Baltzer but Piller or something that she has used to shield her Holocaust-surviving grandmother, who loved Israel, from her crusade.

In any case, she too, this painfully deJudaized Jewess, pretends like Hagi El-Ad to love Israel but not the occupation, and never mind that she told the Virtual Mosque site back then that beyond the occupation, which she has seen in trips to Judea and Samaria to observe the crimes of the Jews, “I recognized that the problem was not simply occupation, but rather the creation and maintenance of an ethno-nationalist Jewish entity. I realized occupation was just one step in a much longer process, and I couldn’t simply oppose one and not the other.”

Fascinating. She is opposed to the creation and maintenance of an “ethno-nationalist Jewish entity,” but gives no sign of any discomfort with the “ethno-nationalist Arab identity” of 21 officially Arab states. It is only the Jewish state’s existence that offends her refined opposition to “ethno-nationalist entities.”

So, in the wake last week of the appearance of Btselem’s headman Hagi El-Ad at the UN, this century’s answer to Pablo Cristiani, official Israel lost its temper. A Labor Party MK Yuval Mor Musli filed a complaint of treason against Btselem. Ministress of Justice Ayelet Shaked called Btselem a “disgrace.” Israel’s UN ambassador Dani Danon took note that the UN itself contributes to Btselem and asked the UN to stop doing that, stop acting as if it is some kind of neutral human rights organization instead of an active enemy of the State of Israel.

I don’t know what Dani Danon said, if anything about the other speaker before the Council representing Peace Now. For some reason, the founding Israeli branch could not send an antiJew like Hagi El-Ad to bash their country so one Lara Freidman, head, I think, of the American branch of Peace Now, added her two cents worth of anti-Jew poison.

I feel sorry for these Jews. I once debated Norman Finkelstein, and when I first laid eyes on him in person before the debate, I looked into the eyes of a zombie. I could see he had not an ounce of fellow feeling for fellow Jews. Like Noam Chomsky, his role model and friend of his parents, his was the voice of a Jew dead to Jewishness and Jewish life. He sort of gave me the creeps for that; the emptiness in his eyes.

And so I assume would Lara Friedman if I ever met her, this American woman of Jewish extraction like this Anna Baltzer whose whole identity is wrapped up in broadcasting to the world, “Do not identify me with those Jews in Israel that the whole world hates.”

I remember the first time I saw George Soros interviewed on television. I think it was the Newshour on PBS, in which he was identified as a Holocaust survivor by the interviewer but then Soros interrupted the interviewer in order to make clear he was not to be identified as a supporter of Israel. It was an unprovoked interruption since the topic for discussion, if memory serves, was the economy, he is an investor, and had nothing to do with Israel.

One can only speculate on the roots of such behavior. People call them “self-hating Jews” but my late friend of blessed memory New York Journalist Sidney Zion rejected that term. He said such people do not hate themselves. They love themselves. They hate Jews.

And there is much to that view. One component of this kind of spiritual autoimmune disease, the denial of the people one was born into, is likely to be, I think, fear and trauma so intense at an early age, they want the world to know they must not be included in the hated group. They are driven to advertise their hatred of Jews just like those who want to murder us all the time in order to defend themselves.

Perhaps such hysterical types, when first learning of the horrible history of massacres of Jews in every generation, were at a particularly vulnerable moment and became so traumatized by the stories, they wanted out of that targeted group that the world hates so much.

In any case, all of them, suffer not only from this ugly siding with their people’s worst enemies – in this generation, the savage, barbaric Arabs and Muslims -- their handicap is matched by a profound ignorance of the situation here as it really is. For example, the belief that there is an occupation and there is an international law against Jewish life in Judea and Samaria, and that Israel enforces an apartheid system, when there is no truth to such claims.

When not angry at such people, I pity them.
