Shalom laYehudim, Shalom laBnai Noach, Shalom laGoyim. It is the evening of the 4th day, kebes beMar Heshvan, Parashas Lech Lecha, tav-shin-ayin-zion, the evening of the 3rd day, Tuesday, 8 November 2016, webcasting from Israel, like many countries, I'm sure today, focused on the United States elections.

The newspapers here this morning were nothing but articles on the elections. I felt no need to read them. Israeli analysts have little to teach Americans living in Israel about America.

The Jerusalem Post was one pro-Hillary piece after another. One was devoted to American Jews who, if Trump is elected, will consider Aliya/moving to Israel, like their idols, the Hollywood celebrities who say they will go into exile if Trump is elected. This is a new one, on why people make Aliyah.

It is simultaneously frightening and fascinating to read the fantasy distortions of Donald Trump in the pro-Hillary community. As usual -- I mentioned it last webcast --their hostility to him is basically a reaction to a "racist bigot"; that is what they see. Said one 22-year-old Jew with a splendid gentile first name Nicholas, in Cincinnati, saying, "I don't think I can live through four years of Trump's America, the mainstreaming of racism and bigotry. Antisemitism is also coming out of the woodwork," which he of course attributes to Trump's followers.

Apparently, what the House of Clinton has done is rile up the Latino community as well, to see in Trump a racist hater of Latinos, so Hillary is expecting a big turnout from them.

And I will not be surprised if she wins because I fear there are just too many Third World types in the country now with little feel for democracy. For example, maybe you saw that video clip of Obama the other day interviewed by a Mexican-American reporter, speaking perfect English, probably born here. She asked a question inside of which was a statement that Obama ignored and thus came off in his response seeming to encourage illegal aliens to vote, and nothing will happen to them. Not quite right, if you listen carefully to the interchange. In this case, his critics are wrong.

But he did not do that something that he should have. In her question, the oh-so liberal pro-Mexican illegal alien journalist said that in her opinion, because they are here and contribute, they are citizens in her mind. That is what Obama did not react to and tell her that in order to vote, one must be a citizen, no two ways about it. Tell her that in the US, society plays by the rules and it is not for her to decide who is or is not a citizen. Good intentions do not override US law.

Hers is the attitude of the liberal for whom feelings are the seat of all wisdom and truth. Like Hillary, who has been a compulsive, chronic violator of laws all her life, as if they did not apply to her. She has always been out to win, and in the long term that would be good for society, she probably rationalizes, because she has such good intentions.

The West, because it is a degenerate West these days, losing its religion with nothing to replace it, has produced a withered left side in society that has become like a cancerous limb. A healthy, liberal democracy needs both camps to be healthy, to keep each other honest, to challenge each other's assumptions, to compete. Competition produces superior results. Each one points out the flaws on the other side.

Today, though, the Left, the liberals, are brainless, narcissistic puddles of emotion. The idea that Donald Trump somehow suffers from a bigoted view of Latinos is not of this world. He wants to stop the invasion from Mexico because it is in the long-run detrimental to the country. The country will suffer, for a variety of reasons having nothing to do with the color of anyone's skin. For years now, I know from an erstwhile DPP subscriber in Phoenix, the city hospitals and schools are bulging with the illegal aliens' schoolchildren and patients who use the emergency rooms as their freebie HMO. The city infrastructure, the city budget, buckles under such strain.

And in a time of serious unemployment, tolerating this invasion is a crime against the American worker. For the sake of the liberals' own self-image -- feeling good about themselves -- they make others suffer.

I hope you heard the latest news two days ago from the latest Wikileaks dump: how Hill and Bill created the Clinton Foundation as a charity to help poor people. They themselves have almost a billion dollars, but when it came to paying for Chelsea's wedding, they had the Clinton Foundation foot the bill. They solicit funds from others under the guise of charity and then pocket the money for themselves, these almost billionaires.

These people are not only criminals. They are sick in the head about money and they have always been like that, rumor has it. They never pay for anything if they can get away with it.

And that any Americans are in favor of putting this woman in the Oval Office with her proven sex offender husband back in the White House leaves yours truly speechless.

Her separate email sever was a major crime in itself. No one disputes that her classified communications were open to the world, and still she has a following? Are these people braindead or something? Is it so important to have a woman president, a female president, that all other considerations of aptitude and character fly out the window?

She is like Yasir Arafat in that there was nothing he could do to have his role as moderate Jew-killer desirous of peace besmirched, versus the “extremists” in all the other organizations. That was utter nonsense.

There is an image problem here, in the worst sense. We are talking about idolatry. It was an image of Arafat, an idol, that World AntiJewry, gentiles and Jews alike, created and clung to despite all evidence to the contrary that this was a major international terrorist murderer, an antisemitic Nazi-lover and sexual degenerate.

Support for the “Palestinians” in every country in the world was a way of tolerating this generation’s cohort of Jew-killers. Every generation has them.

And there has been nothing Hillary could do to disappoint her supporters. This woman was sacked by the House Judiciary Committee 40 years ago right out of Yale Law School where she was valedictorian, the top student. Top student she may have been, but when it came to practicing law, she exposed herself as having no respect for the law. The law was something to be manipulated, avoided, fooled.

The late New York Times resident conservative opinionator William Safire 20 years ago called her a congenital liar and boy, was he on target. I think it is like some kind of Tourette’s Syndrome with her. She has no control over her speech. Everything that comes out of her mouth can be a lie. It is a variation of her disrespect for the law, which is why she was fired then. Her lies are aggressions against the truth and they come out in the knowledge she will never have to account for them. She has gotten a pass every time. Why?

She also is like Obama who also says things he does not believe in, in order to get his way. I’ve mentioned before that the first time I saw him give a speech and thought he did not believe a word of what he was saying but spoke as he did because he thought it would be pleasing to the audience. He told them what they wanted to hear.

I have lost track of the times he in eight years spoke of the “unbreakable, unshakeable bond with Israel,” while as off camera he sharpened his dagger to plunge into Jewish backs with the Iran deal.

This election has also revealed the continuing descent into oblivion by the American Jews who support Hillary because they are liberals first. If you can believe it, Alan Dershowitz has supported her, as he supported Obama, which is typical for a veteran IBJ, Inside the Beltway Jew, like himself.

This woman is a mental case and should she become the president of the United States, G-d help us. She not only has done nothing to prove her worth as a leader of the nation, she has proven herself to be guilty of raping women as an accessory after the fact by the continuing terrorizing of her husband’s victims after the fact.

Something is very, very wrong with a society that cannot accept the truth about this woman and her husband and their foundation. What is the urgency of having a female president that overrides all these other considerations? Like that Chicana journalist thumbing her nose at American immigration law, so Hillary has been a serial violator, criminal enemy of American law, this valedictorian at Yale Law School.

I fear there is something significant in national meaning in this fact: that this iconic feminist champion lawyer has in effect repeatedly, all her life, given American law the bird.

So if Hillary wins, there is also a reasonable expectation that her health may decline and her vice president, currently Senator Tim Kaine, would become president. Of course, the pro-Hillary liberal Jews don’t care about that, about Kaine as a standout among politicians for his anti-Israelism. Caroline Glick today listed some of his behaviors. First off, his biggest financial backer is J Street, the anti-Israel Jewish cult of antiJew Jews funded by George Soros, the Nazi-collaborating Jew.

When Netanyahu in March 2015 addressed Congress to protest Obama’s knife in the back in the form of his Iran deal, nine Democrat senators walked out on him and Kaine was one of them.

In June 2014, a bipartisan letter went to Obama from Congress opposed to continued funding of the PA because it had just signed an agreement with Hamas. Twelve senators refused to sign; Kaine was one of them.

But then again, these Americans of Jewish extraction who do not live Jewish lives don’t care about that. They support Hillary the idol they worship regardless of her own merits and major demerits and her husband’s. And I think it is no coincidence that in the last days of the campaign Hillary recruited entertainers, Beyoncé and sewer-mouthed husband rapper JZ, and Jon Bon Jovi, all of whom are themselves idols worshipped by Americans these days.

By contrast, before the 20th century and the invention of movies, you know who American youth looked up to? Real human beings with real accomplishments, starting with George Washington, an amazing human being. Not only was he the richest man in America, he was arguably the bravest in battle, and physically one of the strongest. And unlike Hillary he could not tell a lie.

They looked up to settlers, pioneers settling the wilderness, Daniel Boone and Davy Crockett; to Stephen Decatur, Jr. who fought the Muslims hand-to-hand off Tripoli, Libya. That was in 1804. In the War of 1812, he was victorious in sea battles against the British. In 1815, he returned to the north coast Africa, and by the very force of his reputation, when he sailed into Algiers harbor he subdued the port city with threats alone. He was quite a guy. He also died in a duel of honor with another naval officer. The exploits of the US Navy and its officers in the first decades of the Republic became the stuff of legend.

American youth looked up to Abraham Lincoln, to Teddy Roosevelt who looked up to those naval officers. They looked up to Thomas Edison, and so on and so forth, with nary one popular entertainer among them as an idol. There were no movie stars to idolize. no rock musicians, and one can only wonder how many Americans voted today for Hillary Clinton because Beyoncé and J-Z like her too. She is no less an idol than they are, which like all idols enjoy to a large degree characteristics that their idolaters imagine them possessing when they don't.

The ironies of Hillary Clinton are literally mindboggling. Here is this feminist who has striven to be the most powerful man in the world and like a Hollywood mogul and his casting couch, she has raped her way to success. Here is this feminist idol who would not be where she is without her man.

That Americans over the professional lifetime of these two characters Bill and Hill never were ashamed of them; that people still come out to ogle him after the episode of the stained blue dress, his perversion in the office of the president of the United States, his impeachment. That makes some kind of statement about the people in this country at this time.

Some of you may remember the quiz show scandals of the 1950s when a Columbia University professor Charles Van Doren, son of the famous professor Mark Van Doren, was caught cheating the audience in a TV game show. There were Congressional investigations, and following the scam, Van Doren left Columbia and pretty much disappeared from public view.

And I think that after Bill's impeachment, he too should have locked himself away but he did not, and there are still no shortage of fans who go along with his absence of shame.

It has become a shameless culture. Hillary is shameless. Formerly cultured people nowadays spew streams of obscenities in their daily speech.

I find it simply devastating that in light of all Hillary's crimes listed by James Comey last July 5, so many people continued to support her. Comey too, once thought of as a straight arrow, has dirtied himself and it is not clear why. What secret does Hillary have about him that she blackmails him with?

The corruption is shameless, whose base word, shame is, I like to think, from the Hebrew for "name," shem, meaning indirectly in common parlance, G-d. To be shameless is to have no room in your life for HaShem, for G-d, a life without HaShem watching over you and wanting to see right behavior. And to experience shame when you don't.

In Russian, my friends tell me, the name Ham is an insult. Comparing someone to Ham is to call him in English "shameless." We just read about him. It likely comes from the story of Ham who shamelessly violated his father Noah's dignity, saw him exposed and then exposed what he saw to his brothers.

Maybe what the godless West is now experiencing is something like the decline of humanity that led to the destruction of the world when the Great Flood washed over the entire globe, turned it in a global mikveh to wash out its sins. According to Rashi's commentary, the two major sins of man that brought on the Flood was of course hamas, unbridled aggression against others, but also, via Rashi's probing of the text, the corruption of all flesh, animals included, who like humans disrespected the divisions between them and engaged in interspecies sex. Animals coupled outside their species, and so did man. Bestiality had become the norm. Today in Denmark and surely other countries in Europe, there are legal brothels where men pay to have sex with animals.

Bill Clinton, we know, is a predatory animal when it comes to sex, and Hillary, his accomplice, is likely a lesbian with her lover a mutilated Saudi woman spy married to a sexual pervert. What a time we live in.

Trump also dirtied himself about sex as we saw in that vulgar video.

It is a society sexually off the rails.

Here in Israel the self-defense against the anti-Jew is a daily affair. Yesterday, two of Prime Minister Netanyahu's top aides, acting National Security Advisor Yaakov Nagel and Yitzhak Molcho met with France's Special Envoy to the Middle East Pierre Vimont, mentioned last webcast, to tell him that Israel will not participate in France's so-called international peace conference next month in Paris. Peace will be made via face-to-face, they said, in bilateral talks with the Arabians, not via some international kangaroo court, my language of course.

These Europeans can be so obtuse sometimes. It turns out that this international peace conference they are organizing for next month will have in its title language calling for “implementation of the two-state solution.” In other words, a peace conference in which the conclusion is already determined. But if so, what is the purpose of the conference? Sounds to me like just more ritual Jew-bashing.

This “two-state solution” language is like the legendary courtroom question, “When did you stop beating you wife?” It establishes an unchallenged fact as fact. The two-state solution is an antisemitic euphemism for driving the Jews from Judea and Samaria that they legally captured in self-defense and, by the way, was recognized as theirs even before then by the League of Nations, and later the United Nations that incorporated the Mandate into its charter.

The two-state solution is a euphemism for driving the Jews from Judea and Samaria, as they fled Gaza, and this too will also be the “right” thing to do.

What Israel might do in December when this international anti-Israel jamboree opens for business in Paris is conduct here in Jerusalem a parallel symposium of experts discussing France’s rule over Corsica that some Corsicans violently dislike, and propose a solution without the participation of France in the deliberations.

Israel’s symposium might also focus on Spain’s colonial presence in Ceuta and Melilla, those two little colonies on the North African coast.

What Israel should do after, G-d willing, a Trump victory, is adopt a policy of cleansing the relationship with the Arabs here of all the words, phrases, values, policies and unspoken assumptions of the failed, so-called Oslo Peace Process precisely because it did fail. We should have a Flood-like cleansing of the concepts. The two-state solution is residue from that cancerous time in Jewish history when the Israeli Left of Rabin and Peres brought down the Oslo assumptions on the country which are still alive and kicking.

Israel has to redefine the terms of debate and that should include throwing out, first of all, the notion of a “Palestinian” people with rights to an independent nation-state in the middle of the Promised Land, our Promised Land. Jews who accept the existence of such a nation with national rights here are functionally apostate Jews for trashing the story of Abraham that we will read this Shabbos in shul when HaShem commands him to go to a nameless country that G-d will give to him and his seed. For thousands of years, the Jews believed that it belonged to one people only and believed that shamelessly.

Today, by contrast, Jews are ashamed of their abuse of the “Palestinians” and their (!) rights to this land.

What the invention of the “Palestinians” did was reject this essential Jewish belief and insist that this land belonged to another people with an identical claim. It is their ancient homeland too.

Yours truly never ceases to be amazed by Jews and especially Israeli Jews who call these people “Palestinians” who are oblivious to what they are saying. The “Palestinian” identity is inseparable from the accusation that the Jews stole Palestine from them. What the peace junkies have been trying to do is persuade the Muslims here to recognize our right to independence in our ancient land, free of their oppression, by going along with the fantasy of a parallel “Palestinian” nation with a parallel, equal right to an independent state in our ancient homeland.

That of course can never work because the preexisting condition of Islamic Jew-hatred never had anything to do with a putatively Paleolithic “Palestinian” people and Israel’s alleged armed robbery of their land.

Today we learned of the government’s success in persuading Interpol to reject the application for membership by the PA police.

I think it would be a lot easier if Israel would do the right thing and deny the existence of such people and short circuit all the anti-Israel propaganda based on this antisemitic aggression of denying the Jewish people’s right to its land given to them by the G-d of the universe.

Okay, next webcast, Thursday, November 10. It will be a whole new world.
